Deafness Cannot be Cured

Local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

NARROW ESCAPE

From Awful Accident at Newton Upper Falls.Woonsocket Train Leaves Main Track and Engine is Ditched.

The 3.32 outward Woonsocket accommodation train from Boston met with an accident last Friday afternoon on the Woonsocket branch of the New York, New Haven & Hartford road near Mechanic street, Newton Upper Falls, which came very close to being a serious affair.

As it was, while the 30 passengers on the train escaped with nothing more serious than a bad shaking up and fright, Lawrence Koldenburg, the fireman on the engine, had a leg broken, and Michael Devlin, a laborer, received probable fatal injuries.

The engine and tender of the train, together with a coal car, were ditched.

An alleged open switch caused the smash-up.

The train ran to Newton Highlands all right, and after the usual wait, proceeded thence made up of a baggage car, combination smoker and baggage car, and one day coach. The engineer was W. H. Cook, the fireman Lawrence Koldenburg, and the conductor James Colgan. A short distance from Mechanic street, Newton Upper Falls, there is a spur track running to the shed of the Garden City Coal Company and on this spur at that time was a heavily loaded coal car which a laborer, Michael Devlin, was at work with his shovel. Just beyond the coal car was a bumper, and beyond the bumper the ground dropped away sharply to a deep gully at the bottom of which a brook ran through the yards.

When the Woonsocket train drew near this spur track, the switch target, so Engineer Cook says, was showing white, indicating that the main line rail was closed; but as the locomotive passed the switch the engineer was brought up standing by seeing the machine take the spur track. Fireman Koldenburg saw that a collision was inevitable and jumped, breaking one leg. The engineer stuck and reversed his engine. There was a slight slow down, but next moment the pilot had struck the coal car with a crash that sent it and the bumper back of it, a mass of wreckage, down into the gully. The locomotive left the rails and toppled down the embankment after the coal car, but the baggage and passenger cars behind remained at the track level and were not in the wreck.

Passengers, warned of what was happening by hearing the ripping and splintering of the shed-roof timbers as the high cars scraped under them, were in a panic, but they soon got out of the car, thankful to have escaped injury. A hurried investigation showed that the fireman was the only person on the train who had been seriously hurt. Engineer Cook had only a few bruises. But Devlin, the man who had been at work on the coal car, was taken from the pile of wreckage in the gully, badly hurt.

Ambulances and police were sent to the scene, and a number of the road's officials hurried out from Boston. But Superintendent Clark could find nothing wrong with engine or switch, and was at a loss how to account for the wreck. Engineer Cook says he cannot tell whether the spur switch was open or locked, but that the target showed white, indicating a clear track.

Koldenburg, at his own request, as soon as his injuries were dressed, was carried to his home in Needham. Devlin, who was dragged out with difficulty from a heap of timbers, coal and other debris, was taken to the Newton Hospital.

A special train which was made up at Needham was placed at the disposal of the passengers. The two cars remaining on the rails were removed.

The exact cause of the accident remains in doubt, in view of the fact that Engineer Cook claims that the switch was closed. In view of his statement, it is thought that while it may have been closed, it was not locked and that the trucks caused it to open.

A train is said to have passed the switch at 3.15 without mishap. Just who is responsible for the handling of the switch could not be learned.

Multiplicity of Attractions.

The stage show has always been a feature of the Clinton fair, and those who have been in the habit of attending know that there is never a moment but what something is in the tapis. At an expense of $2000 the entertainment committee has secured a selected coterie of European and American artists who will come to Clinton on September 10, 11 and 12.

The list includes Prof. Carl E. Myers, captive war balloon, making ascensions from morning till night 100 feet in the air; Marvellous Marsh, the most sensational high diver the world has ever seen, who twice daily dives from a 40 foot chute into a tank of water, after having attained a speed of more than a mile a minute while coasting down a 150 foot incline; Mme. Pianka and her five trained lions; Royal Tokio Japanese troupe; Girard Leon and his comedy donkeys; Al Rano and his troupe of acrobatic bull terriers; Wolfe & Wilton, bounding billiard table act; Ramza & Amo, in their famous Bloudin donkey act; Brumfit, wire equilibrist; and several other vaudeville acts of a lesser nature, which together with the Salem Cadet band and their two concerts daily, will give the greatest program ever seen at the Clinton fair.

A LEGEND OF THE COLORADO

[Original.]

Out in that magnificent country through which flows the Colorado there was once an Indian chief of such imposing mien, such great strength, such marvelous bravery, that his own and neighboring tribes attributed to him superhuman powers. His son, Rainbow, inherited much of his father's manly beauty and courage, and when the father became too old to lead in war he summoned his people and representatives of the neighboring tribes to witness the ceremony of his abdication in favor of the younger man. When all were assembled, Sunface, the father, addressed his son, admonishing him to rule wisely, then counseled the visiting chiefs to keep the peace, ending by placing in the young man's hand a spear which the old chief had carried for many years.

One of the chiefs present had brought his daughter, Singing Water, to witness the ceremony. Rainbow saw her and loved her. Singing Water saw the young chief and loved him. Before the maiden returned with her father to her country Rainbow had asked for her hand, but she had been promised to another, Snake-in-His-Hole.

Singing Water had no sooner departed than Rainbow fell into melancholy. His father, seeing that Rainbow would be useless as a ruler without the maiden, proposed that they should go together to her father and endeavor to secure her in marriage. They made the journey, crossing the Colorado, and appeared before the chief. He did not dare grant their request for fear of antagonizing Snake-in-His-Hole. Having met with a polite refusal, they started, with heavy hearts, on their return journey. On the way they saw Singing Water sitting on a rock waiting to bid adieu to the man she loved. Rainbow rode up to the rock, which was to the height of his pony's back. Singing Water put her arms about him and whispered in his ear, "Take me with you." Placing her before him on the horse, he gave the word he used only when he wished the beast to go at full speed, and before the few people standing about him realized what he was doing Rainbow, with his burden, was going like the wind. Sunface followed, calling on his son to halt.

Snake-in-His-Hole, seeing that something was amiss, rode to where the maiden had been captured and, learning what had taken place, dashed after the fugitives, calling at the same time to other warriors to follow him. Sunface when he overtook his son chided him for what he had done, saying that this was a rash act with which to begin his rule.

It seemed to the lovers that the old man spoke rashly, for the Colorado lay between them and safety, and its crossing was a slow process. Before they could descend a thousand feet to their boat their pursuers would be upon them, and when they climbed the opposite cliff they would be within easy reach of arrows.

When they arrived at the river, Sunface bade his son return to him the spear which he had surrendered and begin the descent to the river with the maiden. The young man gave up the spear and led Singing Water down the trail. When the pursuers came up, they found the old chief sitting on his horse in the bed of a shallow stream flowing between two rocks which he could touch with either hand and towering far above him.

The Indians had so long been used to considering Sunface as superhuman that the awe inspiring sight of the old man sitting on his horse, rigid, his spear poised, his eyes fixed upon their leader, brought them to a sudden halt. Snake-in-His-Hole himself, though brave and angered at the abduction of the maiden, recoiled.

"Stand aside, old man!" he cried. "We respect you for your past deeds and your age and would not harm you."

Sunface answered never a word, sitting fixedly, staring before him without moving his eyes from the speaker.

"He is the god of the pass!" cried one. "No man can go between the rocks while he is there. He can call the lightning from heaven to aid him."

"He is mortal," said Snake-in-His-Hole, but superstition diverted his aim, and the weapon rebounded from the rock at the right. Seizing another spear, Snake-in-His-Hole hurled it again, only to strike the rock on the left. Then the warriors drew off and watched the man they took for a god from a distance. Evening came, and still he moved not. Night came, and by the light of the full rising moon they saw the figure still sitting between the rocks, his eyes open and the reflection of the moon in the water striking upon his glittering orbs.

When midnight came, they said that no mortal could hold a spear poised so long, surely not an old man. When the pale face of the moon looked at them from the west, growing more and more ashen before the break of day, and the old chief still sat with his arm raised, one by one the people before him fell on their faces. When the sun chased away the shadows and the grim figure stood out more clearly, Snake-in-His-Hole was emboldened to ride forward. Drawing near, he leaned forward and peered into the white face. Then he knew that Sunface was dead.

Rainbow took the maiden across the river, then went back to his father. While recrossing the river he met the Indians in a boat bearing the body of his father, whom they persisted in considering a god.

The two tribes were afterward united under Rainbow.

HESTER B. MERIWETHER.

HOW PRIVATE BANCROFT BECAME AN OFFICER

[Original.]

Sandy Bancroft, a private in the United States forces in the province of Santiago in 1898, was hungry. Nations had not been forthcoming for several days, and the boys' stomachs instead of being a healthy convex began to be a sickly concave. Sandy was on picket, and exposure made food all the more necessary.

"I'm going foraging," he said. "Better not," said his comrades. "You'll fall into the hands of the da-goes, and if you don't you'll get into trouble for leaving your post."

Sandy preferred to take both risks to enduring the pangs of hunger. The officer of the picket was worn out and sound asleep, so he need not know of Sandy's absence, and if he did he would not dare report him since he was himself liable to be shot for sleeping on post. Singling his Krag-Jorgensen over his shoulder, Sandy buckled his revolver to his hip and started forth. Seeing a house in the distance, he made for it and on reaching it knocked at the door. A black eyed Spanish girl opened it and stood looking at him suspiciously.

"Could you give me a bite?" asked the soldier, lifting his hat politely.

The girl shook her head, indicating that she did not understand English, whereupon Sandy made pantomime motions descriptive of shoveling in food. The girl led the way into the dining room and placed on the table the remains of last night's supper. Sandy exercised great ingenuity in pantomiming his gratitude, then sat down and fell to. Meanwhile the girl left the room. After the soldier had eaten his fill he stuffed his pockets for his comrades, then arose from the table and, taking his gun, was about to depart when the girl came in, apparently in great excitement, and, pantomiming in her turn, gave him to understand that the Spaniards were coming. Opening a trapdoor, she pointed to a staircase leading to the cellar. Sandy descended, and the door was closed. Then he heard the sound of heavy furniture being moved on to the trap, and it began to dawn upon him that he was a prisoner.

Having got in, the first thing he did was to look about him to discover how he could get out. There was but one little square window, near the ceiling, which was covered with an iron grating. Consequently Sandy was as safe as a rat in a trap. He had not been there long before the girl, accompanied by a Spanish officer, appeared at the window. Sandy seized his rifle, but the two speedily betook themselves out of range. He could hear them chattering and made out from one or two words he understood that one of them—the officer, he supposed—would go for a guard to remove him. Then he heard footsteps in the room above, after which all was quiet.

Sandy gave himself up as captured for a time, then resumed his interrupted reconnoitering for a means of escape. A chimney was built from the cellar, where it was of stone, with no opening, but the house was very old and the stones had been loosely put together. Sandy tugged at one of them and succeeded in removing it. This loosened two or three more, and he put his head and shoulders through. The chimney was large enough for him to pass through it, and he determined to climb up. Leaving his rifle, relying solely on his revolver, he got through the aperture and, using back and knees, shinned up to the floor above, where he encountered a broad, flat hearthstone. Sandy was pretty strong and succeeded in lifting it a few inches. Through the crack he saw the Spanish officer sitting with his arms and head on a table, asleep.

Sandy's movements from this point were conducted with the utmost care. Bracing himself, he gave the stone another lift and, drawing his revolver, put it lengthwise between one end and the floor. This was a critical moment. If the officer awakened, Sandy was lost. Resting only a moment, he gave the stone one more tug and got it on end. Then he gently rested it against the fireplace and in another moment was sitting on a coping.

At this moment a loose stone became detached and dropped to the cellar, making a great noise. The officer raised his head, and great was his astonishment at seeing Sandy sitting in the fireplace. For a moment he seemed paralyzed. Then, drawing a pistol, he was about to fire when his arm fell limp and his pistol dropped on the floor. Sandy had winged him.

"Hands up! 'Bout face! March!" cried Sandy, but as the officer did not understand English his captor was obliged to resort to pantomime again, which the officer, with a revolver pointed at him, was not slow in understanding. Sandy marched his captive out of the house and toward the American lines. When he got within hailing distance of the picket, a bullet sang by his ear from the rear, and, turning, he saw a dozen Spaniards, led by the girl who had trapped him, standing at a rise in the ground, gesticulating. At the same moment the picket advanced to Sandy's rescue.

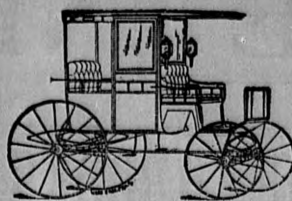

Captain Murphy of the picket post had finished a two hours' nap and was rubbing his eyes when he heard the firing. Starting up, he saw Sandy Bancroft coming in with his prisoner.

"What were you doing outside this line?" demanded the captain sternly. "Reconnoitering," said Sandy.

The officer thought of his nap on post and concluded to compromise for silence with Sandy and the men who were munching the food Sandy had brought for them.

"You are a brave man," he said. "I shall recommend you for promotion."

FOR GOVERNOR.

Newton Resident Mentioned
For That Honor.William H. Partridge Nominated by Prohibitionists.

Mr. William H. Partridge, a well known resident of this city, was nominated for Governor by the Prohibition party at its convention in Tremont Temple, Boston, last Monday morning.

Mr. Partridge has been honored in previous years by the party for various state offices, and as a candidate for Lieutenant Governor in 1901, polled 4325 votes.

Mr. Partridge was nominated for Governor by Willard O. Wylie of Beverly and received a unanimous vote. Later he addressed the convention.

Following the convention there was a reception and banquet. Rev. Wm. H. Cobb of Newton Centre was chairman of the Committee on Resolutions.

Death of Mr. Lowell.

Following ill health lasting about a year and more serious illness of a week or longer, William Levi Lowell died Friday morning at his home at 234 Park street, Newton, at the age of sixty-nine years. He had lived in Newton upward of a score of years.

Mr. Lowell was born in Wiscasset, Me., in 1833, and was the son of Joseph Lowell and Sybil (Houdlette) Lowell. His mother was a native of Dredon, Me. Mr. Lowell received the usual academic education common in the days of his youth, and afterward went from Wiscasset to Calais, where he developed a taste for expert accounting, gaining there his first insight into business affairs.

After some years of success in Calais, he went to Halifax, N. S., where he entered the banking business, in which he achieved success. He retired from active business nearly twenty years ago and came to Massachusetts, taking up his residence at that time in Newton, where he has lived quietly in the enjoyment of his home, his friends and neighbors. He is survived by his wife, who before her marriage was Miss Frances Holbrook, daughter of S. A. Holbrook of Freeport, Me., at one time state treasurer of Maine. Two sons, Dr. Holbrook Lowell, a practicing physician in Newton, and Louis Holbrook, who is a student and living at home, also survive Mr. Lowell.

Funeral services were held at the Park street residence, Sunday afternoon at 3 in charge of Rev. F. B. Hornbrook. The interment was at Freeport, Me.

At a special meeting of the directors of the United Zinc Companies called to take action with reference to the death of William L. Lowell, late president of the company, the following resolution was passed:

WHEREAS, it has pleased an All-Wise Providence to remove from our midst our late associate and president, William L. Lowell;

THEREFORE, it is resolved that we place upon the records of this company our appreciation of his untiring energy, amiable character and worth as an associate, as well as our grief at his loss, and that we extend to his family, with whom we mourn, our heartfelt sympathy.

In reply to inquiries we have pleasure in announcing that Ely's Liquid Cream Balm is like the solid preparation of that admirable remedy in that it cleanses and heals membranes affected by nasal catarrh. There is no drying or sneezing. The Liquid Cream Balm is adapted to use by patients who have trouble in inhaling through the nose and prefer spraying. The price, including spraying tube, is 75 cents. Sold by druggists or mailed by Ely Brothers, 56 Warren Street, New York.

Political Notes.

It was announced last week that J. Howell Crosby of Arlington will be a candidate for the Governor's council from the 3d district to succeed Councilor Henry D. Yerxa, who has declined to stand for another term. Mr. Crosby's decision to enter the field adds another to a list of candidates which already numbers three, the others being E. R. Hoag of Chelsea, Harvey W. May of Natick and W. W. Rawson of Arlington.

The Boston Post on Monday stated that a plan is being agitated in several parts of the State looking toward the carving out of a new county. From Lawrence comes the story that it is being talked up that a new county should be carved out to comprise Lowell, Lawrence, Haverhill and the adjoining towns along the Merrimack River. Lowell is now in Middlesex county and if Lowell should be taken from Middlesex and made a part of a new county Pithburg might be turned over to be a part of Middlesex county.

There are said to be two facts that have brought out the discussion for a new county at Lawrence. One is the probable completion of a new court house at Lawrence within a year, and the other is the desire of Salem attorneys to have a large part of the court business transacted in that city.

The democratic caucuses have been called for Wednesday, Sept. 10, as follows: Ward 1, Armory hall, H. J. Murnaghan; Ward 2, Associates hall, T. Spellman; Ward 3, Village hall, W. H. May; Ward 4, Taylor block, P. A. McVicar; Ward 5, Voting booth, Petter street, T. H. King; Ward 6, Bray hall, W. F. Woodman; Ward 7, Elliot lower hall, M. J. O'Shea.

All of the wards are entitled to a delegate at large to the various conventions and individual wards as follows: Ward 1, two; Ward 2, two; Ward 3, two; Ward 4, one; Ward 5, one; Ward 6, one, a total of 16.

Veteran Firemen Win at South Framingham.The Nonantum Adds $250 More To Its Prize Fund.

The old hand tub Nonantum as handled by the Newton Veteran Firemen's Association is making a record this year and no mistake.

Last week they had beaten the record for prize money won in any single season, and on Monday last they added $250 more, making a total fund of $1550 won in 1902, and more musters still to come.

The best records for prize money in previous seasons had been $1175, so that the veterans have a wide margin in their new record.

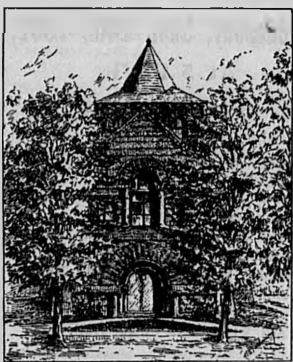

The muster on Labor Day was held at South Framingham and fully 110 men turned out with the Nonantum.

The conditions were adverse to playing a long stream there being a strong head wind, but by taking every lull, Foreman Hargodon with 50 men on the brakes won the first prize of $250, with the distance of 164 feet 2 1/4 inches. The Chicopee Veterans won the second prize of $150 and the special prize of $25 for the best appearance.

The results of the payout follow: Nonantum, Newton, 164 2 1/4; Chicopee Vets, Chicopee, 163 6; Protector, Brockton, 162 3 1/4; Washington, Revere, 157 8 1/2; Braintree, East Braintree, 155 1; Hingham Vets, Hingham, 154 4 1/4; Liberty, Chelsea, 150 3; Winnisimett, Chelsea, 145 1 1/2; White Angel, Salem, 141 11; Quinobequin, Hopkinton, 138 11 1/2; Gen. Taylor, Everett, 138 10 1/2.

The regular meeting of the veterans at their engine house on Watertown street, West Newton, last Wednesday evening was an occasion of much rejoicing over the good fortune which had come to the Association. At the business meeting it was voted to pay off the mortgage of $1,000 on the building and some other debts amounting to $100, from the prize fund, leaving a balance of over $400 in the treasury. It was also voted to attend the muster at South Weymouth on Sept. 25th, and it is probable that the company will go to Brockton on Oct. 23rd.

Following the business meeting a substantial collation was served to the fifty or sixty members and guests who were present.

Immanuel Church Repaired

During the last two months the Immanuel Baptist church has been extensively altered and repaired. In addition to exterior improvements, the interior has been refurnished so that now the church presents a beautiful appearance. One of the most pleasing effects is in the carrying out of a color idea, thereby giving a harmony to all the inside decorations. In the auditorium there are new carpets, new curtains and hangings, an enlarged pulpit platform and ample accommodations for the choir, while the walls have been retouched where necessary.

Among the changes effected none are more extensive than those of the chapel and Sunday school rooms. Here also the carpets are new, the chandeliers and gas fixtures have been done over in old brass, and the walls of all the rooms retinted and handsomely decorated. A soft, restful green is the prevailing color.

Besides these repairs, a thorough renovation has placed the building in ideal condition. The church will open next Sunday, September 7th, with all the regular services.

Gallagher-Turner.

The marriage of Miss Nora E. Turner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Turner of Newton Centre and Mr. John F. Gallagher of Nonantum took place on Monday morning at 9 at the Church of the Sacred Heart, Newton Centre.

High mass was celebrated by Rev. D. J. Wholey, and Miss Mary V. Healey presided at the organ. Miss Molly Turner was maid of honor, and Mr. Edward Ambrose Gallagher was best man. The bridesmaids were Misses Josephine Ella and Katherine Turner, sisters of the bride. The ushers were Mr. Richard Turner, Mr. William Brogg and Mr. James Gallagher.

The bride wore a handsome dress of white muslin over white silk and her veil was caught up with lilies of the valley. She carried a white ivory prayer book. The maid of honor and bridesmaids were gowned in white muslin.

After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Gallagher will reside on Allison street, Nonantum, and will be at home Oct. 23rd.

A MOMENT'S MISTAKE.

By R. H. Holt-Lomax.

This little book possesses human interest, for all, describing as it does, the love of the man for the woman and the love between the parent and child.

Simple in plot, this story deals with the marriage of a young couple who, separated from each other by an accident, yet cling in spite of everything to their one son. The sacrifices which they make, and the temptations husband and wife surmount for the sake of this boy bring into play the leading phases of our human natures and relationships.

The scenes are laid in Europe and in the Boundary country where the States join the Dominion of Canada. Beautifully bound in cloth, 12 mo., St. The Abbey Press, New York.

THE PLAYHOUSE.

PARK THEATRE, Sept. 8.—"The Banker's Daughter."
MUSIC HALL, Sept. 8.—Weber and Fields in "Fiddle-Dee-Dee."
GRAND OPERA HOUSE, Sept. 8.—"Ole Olson."
BOSTON THEATRE, Sept. 15.—"Quincy Adams Sawyer."
TREMONT THEATRE, Sept. 22.—Grand Opera.

Park Theatre—The performances of Rosedale given by Corse Payton and his stock company every afternoon and evening at the Park Theatre this week have drawn large and appreciative audiences. The attraction for the coming week, the fourth at the Park Theatre under Mr. Payton's management, is "The Banker's Daughter," the celebrated drama by Brounson Howard which is always sure of a hearty welcome by theatre-goers who are fond of a play wherein emotional episodes and humorous incidents are cleverly woven. Mr. Howard's play is among the most popular in Corse Payton's repertory, and it will be acted by all the leading members of his company. The scenery and costumes have been specially prepared under Mr. Payton's direct supervision, and a production complete in every respect is promised. The growing popularity of the Park Theatre under Mr. Payton's management show clearly that there is a field in Boston for a play house where popular dramas may be presented at popular prices. It should be remembered that two performances are given every day in the week at the Park Theatre in the afternoon at two o'clock and in the evening at eight, and that seats may be procured eight weeks in advance. Regular patrons may also have the same seats reserved for them every week upon application at the box office.

Boston Music Hall—The new policy which has been inaugurated by Messrs. E. D. Stair and A. L. Wilbur, the new lessees and proprietors of the theatre, is meeting with the approval of the theatre going public and large audiences have been the rule this week. The daily matinees with their prices of 15 and 25 cents are attracting many ladies and children. The evening prices are 15, 25 and 50 cents and these prices will never be increased. The next attraction, which will open a two weeks' engagement next Monday afternoon, is Weber and Fields' most successful extravaganza, "Fiddle Dee Dee," and this will be followed by Williams and Walker in their new colored comedy, "In Dahomey." Joseph Murphy in the "Kerry Gow," and "Sham Rus," "The Sign of the Cross," and other notable attractions. "Fiddle Dee Dee" has an enviable record for long runs, both in New York and at Buffalo. A short rest was allowed the company this summer, and during that time the show was entirely re-costumed and everything will be new, bright and up-to-date. Some new songs have been added and the cast has been strengthened in many ways. The girls are prettier and can dance better than those of last season, and the entire show is much better in every way. Among the specialties introduced will be the Cardownie Sisters, in their national dances, and the original News Boys' Quintette.

Quintet Grand Opera House—The perennial "Ole Olson" will again amuse and delight lovers of wholesome comedy and fun at the Boston Grand Opera House, next week. Mr. Ben Hendricks, the comedian whose name is closely identified with the success of this play will be seen again in the title role, a part which he has made particularly his own. He is an accomplished actor, thoroughly schooled in the technique of the stage and earnest in his work. "Ole Olson" is offered on the honest basis of furnishing an evening of wholesome fun and laughter. An excellent company is promised in support of Mr. Hendricks, and as a special feature the Swedish Ladies' Quartet will appear, garbed in national costume, in several vocal selections. There will be matinees, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday as usual.

Tremont Theatre—The English grand opera season which is to open at the Tremont Theatre, Boston, on September 22, is being anticipated by the local music lovers for already orders are being received in each mail, some of them asking for seats for every change of bill. Henry W. Savage, who is the director of the grand opera company and John B. Schoeffel, the manager of the theatre, look confidently forward to one of the biggest engagements the theatre has ever had. They will make no advance of price, the regular theatre prices will obtain, and as it is known that the productions are very handsome and the organization made up of one hundred and thirty-five people with voices, it is also certain that the representations will be adequate. The repertory will include "Il Trovatore," "Faust," "Lohengrin," "The Bohemian Girl," "Aida," "Carmen," "Tannhauser," and "Martha." "Il Trovatore" will be the opening bill and will be followed by "Faust."

Boston Theatre—A train will pull into Boston early on Monday morning, Sept. 15, bearing the great Academy of Music production of the famous New England play, "Quincy Adams Sawyer." The stage equipment is of such an extraordinary nature that special cars are required to transport it. There is not only the elaborate scenic setting for each scene in the four acts, but mechanical devices of a complicated nature, intricate mechanism for electric lighting effects, etc. On the same train will arrive the big company to interpret the various characters which number nearly 30, to say nothing of the extra people, such as farm hands, singers, corn huskers, etc. The seats will be placed on sale one week in advance and there is every evidence that they will be in great demand.

A Strong Man

Is strong all over. No man can be strong who is suffering from indigestion or some other disease of the stomach and its associated organs of digestion and nutrition. For when the stomach is diseased there is a loss of the nutrition contained in food, which is the source of all physical strength.

When a man doesn't feel just right, when he doesn't sleep well, has an uncomfortable feeling in the stomach after eating, is languid, nervous and irritable, he is losing the nutrition needed to make strength.

Such a man needs to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enriches the blood, stimulates the liver, nourishes the nerves, and so gives health and strength to the whole body.

Mr. Thomas A. Swartz, of Sub. Station C, Columbus, Ohio, Box 102, writes: "I was taken very sick with severe headache, then cramps in the stomach and my food would not digest, then kidney and liver trouble and my back got weak so I could scarcely get around. The more I doctored the worse I got until six years passed. I could only walk in the house by the aid of a chair, and I had given up to die. Then one of my neighbors said, 'Take my advice and take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and make a new man out of yourself.' The first bottle helped me and after I had taken eight bottles in about six weeks I was weighed and found I had gained twenty-seven (27) pounds, and I am as stout and healthy to-day, I think, as I ever was."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation.

While there is no danger regarding the renomination of Congressman Samuel L. Powers in the new 12th district for a second term, it is a good time to remind the people of Newton that their fellow citizen has now a high place in the councils of the Republican party at Washington.
Mr. Powers not only has received that attention which his ability deserves but by cleverly organizing the new Republican members into a club, pledged to support each other in the affairs of the House he has obtained a political prestige which cannot but be beneficial to the district.

The good people at Newton Highlands who are in need of sewerage facilities should take the pains to attend the hearing at City Hall, Monday night upon the matter of extending the main sewer to that village.

We hear that objections are to be made by the state water board as the sewer will tunnel their aqueduct.
While this seems a flimsy pretext to block the sewer, as the aqueduct has been tunneled before at other places for the same purpose, it would be well to give the city government a good impression of the desires of Eliot and the Highlands by turning out in full force at the hearing.

The caucus announcements of both political parties appear in this issue and from now on the politicians will be busy. Special attention is called to the card of the Ward One Republican committee inviting the voters of that ward to a preliminary caucus in Armory Hall.

This is in line with the plan suggested by Mr. John T. Langford and its workings will be watched with interest.

The decision of the Veteran Firemen to use their prize money to raise the mortgage from their engine house is to be highly commended.

At the Churches.

the members of Grace church in they come to the services.

The Beethoven quartet of men will now be a regular part of the vated choir of Grace church. There are about thirty-five voices in all in this choir under the direction of Mr. C.
N. Shaden.

After a suspension of services for the summer occasioned by the repairs on the church, the Immanuel Baptist church will open next Sunday. Rev. Mr. Matthews will preach both morning and evening. There is the celebration of the Lord's supper at the close of the morning sermon.
The Sunday school will meet at 12

rick of Newtonville.

Henderson-MacLeod.

A pretty home wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel K. MacLeod on Boy street last Wednesday noon, when their daughter, Miss Louise MacLeod was united in marriage to Mr. Thomas Anderson
Henderson of Fisher's Island, N. Y.

The ceremony was performed by Rev.
Henry E. Oxnard, pastor of the North Evangelical church and only the relatives and immediate friends of the couple were present. There was no maid of honor or best man.

A reception followed at which music was furnished by an orchestra and guests were present from the Newtons, Medford, Boston, Cambridge, Brookline and surrounding towns.

Police Paragraphs.

A servant girl, her mistress and Officer John W. Quilty, were the principal actors in a little comedy, which, by the way, came near being tragedy, last Tuesday afternoon at 11 Hollis street, Newton. An axe, and a razor were the principal accessories, and the residence of Mr. T. E. Eustis furnished the stage. Mrs. Coburn, the housekeeper for Mr. Eustis, engaged a new servant some two weeks ago, named Isabella E. Wait, a woman about 37 years of age. Mrs.
Coburn noticed that the woman did not seem just right and Tuesday afternoon told her that if matters were not improved, she would have to make a change. This seemed to enrage the servant, who muttered something about making a change at once, and went down cellar, where Mrs. Coburn followed. Here the maid picked up an axe and after some argument, this was seized by Mrs. Coburn and thrown into another part of the cellar. The woman then started for the stairs saying that she would get a razor. Mrs. Coburn reached the room where the razor was, ahead of the maid and locked the room, taking out the key. This still further enraged the Wait woman, who started for the second time, while Mrs.
Coburn left the house for assistance.

Neighbors kindly telephoned for the police and when Officer Quilty arrived upon the scene, the Wait woman held sole possession of the house and was industriously engaged in making splinters out of a door in the attic.

Officer Quilty engaged her in conversation while slowly making his way up the attic stairs, although he expected any moment to have the axe thrown at him. Attracting her attention for a moment he succeeded in grasping the axe and wrenched it from her. The officer then had no difficulty in quieting her and she went to the police station in the patrol wagon without trouble. Mrs.
Utley and Gallagher examined her for insanity before court opened on Wednesday but were unable to say she was crazy, and Judge Kennedy sentenced her to the house of correction for two months for disturbing the peace.

Last week Wednesday, as the result of a street quarrel between laborers on Boylston street, Upper Falls, Carlo Rossini was struck on the head by Leo Donairdo, and severely cut.

Donairdo kept out of the way until Tuesday when he surrendered himself to the police, and was placed under $300 bonds by Judge Kennedy until Saturday.

Judge Kennedy fined John J. Devoy of Adams avenue $3 Wednesday morning for allowing his cows to trespass.

Judge Bacon held a private inquest last Friday upon the death of John Gilmore, who was killed by an electric car August 11 at Nonantum.

Last week Officer Kimball recovered five hammock pillows stolen August 27 from H. W. Robinson of Auburn-dale and in court Tuesday morning,
Arthur Hewitt and James Ferguson, 18 and 15 years of age respectively, were fined $5 each for the offence.

Cases of Mrs. Jacob Schwartz charged with assault upon Alfred Danforth, and of Isaac Dunn, who allowed his hens to trespass from his residence on Beecher lane, Thompsonville, were placed on file
last Friday by Judge Bacon.

John Sechendi of Newton Centre was fined $15 for non support Thursday morning.

Alexander Brown, charged with illegal sale of liquor, was fined $50 on Friday morning.

Letter to Willis F. Hadlock

Auburndale, Mass.
Dear Sir: Most painters insist that lead and oil is good for three years;
but they also insist that it needs going over again in three years. It is as much as to say it's a good job of paint that lasts three years.

Which is true; and a better that lasts six years. Lead and oil lasts three; Devco lead and zinc lasts six.

When a paint begins to let in water, then is the time to repaint. It may be one year; it may be ten. Lead and oil lasts three, if well put on; lead and zinc lasts six if ground together and well put on. But painters are better acquainted with lead than with zinc. Zinc is newer.

Devco lead and zinc is the proper mixture, ground in oil by machinery;
same proportions as used by the U.
S. Government.

Yours very truly,
F. W. Devco & Co.

IN THE SUGAR BUSH

[Copyright, 1902, by the B. S. McClure Company.]

That March afternoon as Zeb Taylor made his rounds of the sugar bush with pails suspended from a neck yoke to empty the brimming troughs of sap and convey them to the barrels at the fire it all came back to him so forcibly that he seemed to be working in a dream. He had known Nellie Tompkins since childhood. The two farmhouses stood close together, and the children had been Zeb and Nell to each other until he had become his father's "bired man" and she had put on long dresses. Zeb had never escorted any other girl to the circus, to a picnic, to camp meeting, to a harvest dance or a corn shucking, and Nell had never encouraged any other young man.

The old folks had looked upon it as a matter of course that the young couple would get married in due time. It was only after the girl had been sent away to school and her letters to Zeb had been few and far between that he awoke to the fear of losing her.

Nell Tompkins at eighteen was a good looking, attractive girl, and Zeb realized that education and society would improve her still more. Other young men would be attracted, and he would stand no show.

As Zeb reached the camp and emptied his buckets of sap into the barrels he lingered and thought of more recent sorrows. Nell Tompkins had returned from school two weeks before on a vacation. He had hastened over to the farmhouse in his working clothes to welcome her, and plainly she had been shocked. There was no warmth in her handshake, no love in her eyes. Even when he reappeared a night or two later in his Sunday best she had called him Mr. Taylor and had refused to remember how he had carried her on his back over mudholes and boosted her over fences. A change had come to blast all his hopes, and on his road home he made up his mind to face it like a man.

While he mended the line fence between the two farms next morning he raised his voice in song so that Nell Tompkins might realize that he was not taking her conduct to heart, but his voice sounded like a crow's. When he met Farmer Tompkins, he made a great pretense of being jolly, and he started a report that he was "stuck" on Abigail Spooner and almost in love with Hettie Cable. He also kept away from the Tompkins farmhouse, and if any one asked him for news of Nell it appeared to take him all of thirty seconds to recall her name.

Thus Zeb Taylor had tried to make himself believe that he was getting the best of it.

Night had come in the sugar bush. Zeb had eaten a cold supper while the sap in the pan boiled and foamed and later on had cut up the wood to be used through the hours of darkness. Then he sat down on a log to smoke and figure out how many pails of sap would be the result of that run of sap. He intended to follow the sirup to the "sugar off" process and count up the pounds of sugar, but his thoughts insensibly drifted away to Nell Tompkins, and for a long ten minutes he was oblivious of his surroundings. Then he was suddenly called to life by the boot of an owl. He could have suppressed the cold shivers inside of two minutes had not the foot of a woman. The sugar bush was a mile away from any house, and the voice of a woman in the dark woods weakened Zeb's knees and brought his heart into his throat. He was shaking with alarm when the owl hooted again, a boot full of the direct peril, and again it was followed by the scream of a woman whose life was menaced. Zeb stopped only to grab up a club, and then he made a rush into the darkness. He had only fifty feet to go before discovering Nell Tompkins leaning up against the trunk of a tree.

"You—you here!" gasped Zeb as he came to a halt.

"Yes, and, oh, Zeb, the bear—the bear!" she exclaimed as she held out her arms to him.

"What bear? Where? When?"

"He's just roared out twice, and you—"

"Yes, I heard him roar, but don't you be afraid," said Zeb as he put his arm around her and gently walked her to the fire. The arm still encircled her as they sat down on the log together, and he asked:

"Nell, did you start for anywhere and get lost?"

"I—I don't know," she half sobbed.

"I heard you were making sugar down here all alone and that you were going to sugar off tonight."

"Not quite so soon."

"And I thought—thought—"

"What did you think, Nell?"

"I thought if I came down you'd give me some maple wax on a white chip and that I would say that I was sorry if I hurt your feelings the other night."

"And you got lost in the woods?" queried Zeb as his heart began to melt.

"I—I—guess so. It was awfully dark."

"And a bear growled at you?"

"Such awful growls! Oh, Zeb, I was so glad to see you! I might have been eaten alive!"

"Yes, say, Nell, you are sorry, I'm sorry and what?"

"Why, you'll go home with me, won't you?"

"Yes, and what then?"

"Why, if you and me haven't gone to bed—and I don't think they have—you might want to talk to 'em, you know."

"Yes, I know," whispered Zeb as he lifted her face and kissed her. And then the sap in the pan boiled and foamed again, the fire crackled and snapped, and the owl above their heads chuckled in his throat and flew away to other fields of romance.

GEORGE GRANT.

THE ADVANTAGE OF A CONCENTRATED VISION

[Original.]

Ruth Inwood was a very pretty girl, or would have been had she not been cross eyed. She did not know that the trouble could be corrected and suffered the blight on her beauty with becoming patience. She would sometimes use one eye, sometimes the other.

Ruth had three suitors—Mr. Sanders, a well to do merchant; Mr. Atwater, an attorney in good practice, and George Carter, a young fellow with nothing in his pocket and no prospects. The first two were elderly and unattractive. Atwater was favored by Ruth's father, Sanders by her mother and Carter by Ruth herself.

"I tell you, ma," said Mr. Inwood to his wife while he was shaving one morning, "Ruth is going to take Atwater. Did you notice last evening that she paid attention to everything he said, scarcely glancing at Sanders?"

"Fahaw, pa!" replied the lady. "Ruth was using her left eye. That kept her face turned toward Atwater. She was really looking at Sanders."

Then followed the usual wrangle whenever the parents got on this subject.

It so happened that Mr. Atwater and Mr. Sanders made up their minds to settle the matter between them on the same evening, and it so happened that Ruth had that day received a long admonition from her father as to the folly of letting slip so desirable a suitor as his favorite and a similar admonition from her mother as to the object of her own choice. The poor girl was in a state of mind bordering on insanity when the maid announced Mr. Sanders. Ruth went into the parlor intending to accept him and thus put an end to the matter. Sanders, who was a plain business man, had barely seated himself before he began his proposal with a statement of his affairs. He was coming to the point when Mr. Atwater stepped into the room. Sanders, who suspected Atwater's intention, set his jaws firmly and was going right on when he discovered that the young lady was looking at his rival. Atwater, who had caught the direction of Ruth's other eye, supposed she was looking at Sanders. The latter stopped speaking, and the former maintained silence.

"Ruth," said Sanders presently, "if you will give me your attention for a few moments longer I will leave you with Mr. Atwater."

"I'm listening," said Ruth.

"As I was saying," Mr. Sanders went on, "there is enough for comfort, nothing for display."

Meanwhile Atwater had caught the eye that was turned in his direction and, supposing that Ruth was not attending to his rival's words, began to speak.

"Pardon me for intruding," he said. "I understood from the maid that you were alone."

"Mr. Atwater," said Sanders sharply, "when I am speaking to Miss Inwood it is an ungentlemanly act for you to address her."

"When Miss Inwood gives her attention to me, I feel warranted in addressing her."

"Miss Inwood was looking at me."

"I beg your pardon. She was looking at me."

"You are very—"

Ruth made a dash for the door, rushed upstairs and locked herself in her room. The gentlemen left the house together, but on reaching the door started off in opposite directions.

People who have a physical defect are very sensitive about it, and, although the men were not to blame for the blunder and unconscious of hurting her feelings, Ruth never forgave either of them. A few weeks later each received a note inviting him to call at 9 o'clock precisely the next evening, and he would receive every attention, with a decided reply to anything he might choose to say. When they arrived, Mr. Atwater was invited to take a seat on the right of a portiere, Mr. Sanders on the left.

"Since you arrived first on that memorable evening, Mr. Sanders," said Ruth, "I will give you an opportunity to finish what you were saying when Mr. Atwater came in."

Mr. Sanders, scowling at his rival, boldly asked her to be his wife.

"Now, Mr. Atwater, I shall be pleased to hear what you were intending to say."

Mr. Atwater, without mincing matters, also scowling at his rival, made a similar proposition.

"Gentlemen," said Ruth, "when you were addressing me before a deformity which came to me at my birth caused a scene which was inexpressibly painful to me. When I was looking at Mr. Sanders, Mr. Atwater supposed I was looking at him, and vice versa. I have heard a proposition from each of you which is the highest compliment a man can pay a woman, and I assure you I am sensible of the honor you have done me. I will now give you a reply by looking with both eyes at the man I intend to marry."

As she spoke the last word the portiere was drawn aside and the lady turned her undivided gaze on the figure of George Carter.

Miss Inwood after the painful episode of a few weeks before had been to an oculist and had her eyes straightened. George Carter had made his proposal after the operation and, feeling sure that he held her attention, pleaded his cause with excellent effect. His suit was received with favor by the lady's parents from the fact that a grandmother had recently died and left him a fortune.

ROOM FOR ALL GRADUATES

Nature Adjusts Matters and Always Preserves an Equilibrium.

Once a year the schools and colleges of the country harvest a crop of graduates, and once a year the wise men of the land write essays for publication on the surplus of men who are entering the law, medicine and other callings that are open to the newcomers. If the wise men are to be believed, it would seem that all the occupations were filled and that the young man had arrived too late.

Fortunately for the tenderfoot, the wise men have always been wrong. No philosopher has ever presented a logical argument that did not leave something to be said on the other side. Every year since the world set up for business a new crop of young men has arrived, and that new crop has eventually become the stay of the race. What has been going on eternally will continue. The young chaps will locate themselves. It is no argument that lawyers have their signs staring at you from every hallway on half the streets within several blocks of every courthouse in the country. The harvest that includes a new lot of lawyers also raises a lot of new litigants.

Nature takes care to preserve an equilibrium. If the floggings of the medical schools do not find bones to saw, some of them turn to sawing wood. The boy who has gone through college with the intention of becoming president of the United States finds a satisfactory job as master of ceremonies in a coliseum. A few justices and the new man adjusts himself to circumstances, and then he has become a part of the machine, which runs on as usual.

It is unnecessary to become alarmed about the surplus man. If he is in law, medicine, theology, horse trading, peddling milk or anything else, he finds it out, and he arranges the matter in some way without any upheaval in society. The surplus man is surplus only until he gets his first job. After that he is one of the establishment.—Pittsburg Times.

Giving Her Light to Die.

VOLCANOES.

Some Facts About These Vents to the Earth's Interior Fire.

Eons ago the earth on which we live was a huge mass of "fire mist." Astronomers tell us that today in the heavens we can see vast nebulae, suggesting what the earth was once. Gradually the surface of the "fire mist" cooled and hardened, but the interior is still intensely hot. Whether it is solid, liquid or viscous we do not know. The heat, raging miles below the surface, at times escapes through the hard crust by vents or volcanoes.

There are from 300 to 350 volcanoes on the globe. This estimate includes merely live volcanoes which within recent times have been in action. If we should count the many mountains scattered over the earth which show today signs of volcanic action in more remote past, the estimate would have to be increased by many hundreds.

Volcanoes would seem to be arranged with more or less symmetry in belts circling the great oceans. A ring of fire surrounds the Pacific. Starting at the South Shetland Islands, several hundred miles south of Cape Horn, a belt of volcanoes extends up the west coast of South America, Central America and North America; from Alaska it crosses the Pacific along the Aleutian Islands to Kamchatka; thence it follows the east edge of the Pacific through the Kurile Islands, Japan, Formosa, the Philippines, the Moluccas, the Solomon Islands, the North Hebrides, New Zealand and finally ends in Mounts Terror and Erebus, on the Antarctic continent.—Geographic Magazine.

Autumn Most Delightful Time in the Provinces.

Strange though it may seem, yet it is a fact that the autumn season in Nova Scotia is even more delightful than the summer months. Besides this, the sea trip is more enchanting as fogs along the coast are gone, and the air, although bracing, is not uncomfortable. The continued mild weather through the autumn is due to the action of the Gulf Stream. It is therefore the best time to spend an autumn vacation. "The Bras d'Or Lakes in Cape Breton are particularly attractive at this time as well as Prince Edward Island, noted for its fruit and flower culture and rightly termed the "Garden Island of the Gulf." The cheapest and most direct route to these places is the Plant Line, with offices at 26 School street and Lewis Wharf 20 Atlantic avenue.

When the Leaves Begin to Turn

Is there anything more important to the health of the family than the putting the home in a perfect sanitary condition for the coming winter? Sanitary cleanliness—cleanliness by which the process of bactericidal life harmful to health is arrested and overcome—is occupying a very prominent place in the public thought of the day, and rightly so. It is gradually being borne in upon the minds of housekeepers that soap and water do not give the best results in the way of cleaning. The soap leaves greasy deposits in the cracks of the floors, crevices, nooks and corners about the sink, closets, etc., which are ideal places for the development of bacteria. A little Sulpho-Naphthol, one of the strongest bactericides known to science, in every pail of cleaning water, in place of soap, gives a condition of cleanliness which is the highest point reached in home sanitation today.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

Resolutions on the Deaths of Alderman Kimball and Asst. City Clerk Matthews Adopted.

George Royal Pulsifer Appointed a Member of the Board of Health. Numerous Recommendations from Mayor.

The first regular meeting of the aldermen since the summer vacation was held last Monday evening, President Weed in the chair and Aldermen Baker, Barber, Carter, Chesley, Day, Esaign, Hubbard, Hutchinson, Lathrop, Mellen, Norris, Pond, Trowbridge, and Webster being present.

President Weed stated that since the last regular meeting of the board, two familiar faces had been taken away, and committees appointed to prepare suitable resolutions. He deemed it appropriate to allow immediate action to be taken upon their reports.

Alderman Norris then presented the following resolutions upon the death of Alderman Kimball:

RESOLVED, That the members of the Board of Aldermen of the City of Newton hereby record their appreciation of the character, attainments and public service of their friend and fellow member, the late John M. Kimball, and their profound sorrow at his death.

By his industry, integrity and sound judgment he won for himself an enviable reputation among his business associates, and at the time of his death had achieved so marked a success that his future was full of the brightest promises. He became a resident of Newton in 1898 and soon won the esteem of his neighbors and became closely identified with the life of that community. In the fall of 1901 he was practically the unanimous choice for Alderman from Ward 6. Although his public service has been of brief duration, yet by his uniform courtesy, his devotion to his new duties, his fairness in the deliberations of the Board with his committees, he won the respect and confidence of his associates, and his death is a great public loss.

The members of the Board have been honored by their associations with him, and with sincere sorrow offer their tribute to his memory. RESOLVED, that the members of the Board extend to the widow and family of the deceased their heartfelt sympathy in this overwhelming sorrow.

RESOLVED, that these resolutions be spread upon the records of the Board and a copy sent to the widow of the deceased.

Alderman Ensign said—I rise to second the resolutions as presented by the committee. I hardly know what I can say upon this occasion more fitting than what has been expressed by these resolutions. It certainly is a very sad occasion for us for we have all learned to esteem as a friend, Alderman Kimball. I met him but once before he came into this Board. Since I met him as a member of this Board and found that he was my seat-mate I have often turned to him for advice before voting, for it was evident that he was careful as to how he voted, and when in the hurry and confusion of the hour he failed to fully understand the situation, before voting he was sure to know just what was before the Board. He has been a successful man in every way; in his college, in his business, in his neighborhood, and certainly in this Board. It seems to me if Alderman Kimball's life could have been spared, if he could have entered more fully into public life he had all the requirements that would place him in the mayoralty chair. He has left us, but we shall esteem his memory. It seems to me as I stand here in the hush of the chamber, that if Alderman Kimball was to speak he would say in words like these:

He does well, who does his best,
Is he weary, let him rest,
Brothers I have done my best,
I am weary, let me rest.

Alderman Trowbridge—Unfortunately, in seconding the resolutions I am not able to say all I would like, but I feel that as Chairman of the Public Franchise Committee I have lost a very great friend and one on whom I was leaning more and more every meeting we held. It is true that Alderman Kimball and myself did not always have the same opinion but we always got along in the most harmonious manner, and had nothing but the most pleasant relations. I feel myself, that I have met with a great loss.

President Weed—I think all who have listened to the resolutions which have been offered, and to the remarks, have felt a deep pride that Newton could claim such a man as Alderman Kimball as one of its aldermen, and this man was so entirely worthy of the praise that has been given him. He was a credit to this City Government, and a credit anywhere to the City in which he belonged. Newton has been especially fortunate in being able to call to office, men of such character as our late associate and friend, and the City which he served so honorably and faithfully mourns for him.

The resolutions were unanimously adopted by a rising vote.

Alderman Lathrop then presented the following resolutions upon the death of Assistant City Clerk Matthews:

By the unexpected and untimely death of Edward B. Matthews, the late Assistant City Clerk of Newton, it and its Board of Aldermen have and with a lamentable loss. Born in South Yarmouth in 1870, he came to Newton at the age of twenty-four and entering into the municipal service was three years later appointed to the important and responsible position which he held at the time of his death.

His marked characteristics of gentleness, quietness and rigid faithfulness, combined with a winning personality have left a pleasant remembrance that cannot be effaced.

To his sorrowing widow and grief-stricken mother our warmest sympathies are tendered in this sudden affliction and we sincerely trust that a comforting ray of sunshine may come from our Heavenly Father to cheer and solace them in their bereavement and loneliness.

Alderman Mellen said—The days of our years are three score years and ten, thus spake the inspired psalmist of Israel many centuries before the Christian era. It what he said was true, our departed friend for whom we grieve tonight had not lived out one half his allotted time. The sun of his life had not reached the meridian, but was even then climbing the eastern sky and so the pity of it—his untimely death.

But in the estimation of life, Mr. President, it seems to me we must measure it not by quantity, but by quality. Sometimes a very short life seems so much. I have known of a little baby life coming into a family, and proving a great blessing, for before it came there was coldness and estrangement, and this little life brought love and affection into a household, and although the life was short, its influence remained forever. And so the question is, not how long one lives, but how well one lives, and that is the question that we can answer tonight in regard to our friend.

For thirty-one years Mr. Matthews was building up a character. Now what is character. Character is what a man really is, and not what he seems to be to the galleries, not what he appears to be sometimes to those who usually meet him, but as Dwight L. Moody expressed it, "What a man is after dark," and that well applies to our friend, Mr. Matthews. He was a man of high character, noble ideas, and stooped to nothing low or contemptible. Was he a faithful public servant? Yes. Was he a loyal friend? Yes. Was he a good husband and son? Yes, he was all these, and why? Because he had a noble character.

Character is more than one act and it is more than one succession of acts. It is what is above, and beneath all acts, and a character such as I have described, belonged to Mr. Matthews. A character he had earned by hard untiring persistent efforts.

When we met in this chamber six short weeks ago he was with us, with the glow of health upon his cheek and his step firm and elastic. We had no more cause to fear that his life would end from us than any life in this chamber would, but he has left us as mourners, and not only we who are gathered in this chamber tonight, but the whole City of Newton are mourners, because they have lost a faithful servant. Our friend on the right, (the City Clerk), has lost a faithful helper, one on whom he has leaned and relied, and it is with mournful pleasure that I rise to second the resolutions.

City Clerk Kingsbury was given the privilege of the floor, and spoke as follows:

"When a life is taken away at almost its opening into maturing accomplishments, we speak of it as a great disappointment in a human career. We cling at least to the three score and ten years in our thought of a well rounded life, and our aims in whatever calling are based upon such considerations. It is questionable whether any life however short, or long, is incomplete or has not fulfilled its mission. The starting up of enduring friendships, the manifestations of qualities which command our respect and admiration, ability to do something better than another, are features in human lives which can never fail to exert an influence to be felt for good among one's fellows and associates. Possessing such qualities as I have referred to, Mr. Matthews won his way steadily to promotion, though of retiring disposition. Waiting a necessary surgical operation, his last words to me were, as he left the office on Friday, July 25, 'It is not considered a dangerous operation and I will be back on Tuesday.' On that day he sank into heavy sleep from which no human agency could awaken him and his course was ended on the morning of Friday, August 1st.

"When the little child which came into his household with such a welcome was taken from it, Mr. Matthews, then on a bed of sickness himself, said to me as I entered his room one evening, 'The dream is over.' How true this is now of him. The dream of accomplishments and quiet pursuit of happiness, or of whatever attainment he had in view, is over. But those of us who know him here will remember his uniform courtesy, his willingness to perform any and every duty, and that what he did was done well. He may have been inspired, as Adelaide Proctor so beautifully says in one of her hymns:

Every hour that fleets so slowly
Has its task to do or bear;
Luminous the crown, and holy,
If thou set each gem with care.

The resolutions were then unanimously adopted by a rising vote.

HEARINGS.
No one appeared at the hearing upon the laying out of a foot bridge over the railroad at Chestnut Hill and it was closed.

At the hearing upon taking land for main sewer in Cold Spring Swamp, to reach Eliot and Newton Highlands, Desmond Fitzgerald, the engineer of the Metropolitan Water Board appeared in opposition and read a letter sent to the City from that Board in which objection is based to tunnelling the Sudbury Aqueduct at the depth of 27 feet as proposed. The Board believes that it will be dangerous and that any break in that aqueduct will deprive the entire metropolitan district of water. They suggest a delay until their new aqueduct is completed in about a year, or a temporary 8 inch pipe just under the aqueduct, or the establishment of a small pumping plant to raise the sewerage over the aqueduct.

City Engineer Farnham said that the aqueduct had been tunnelled before and that the work could be done safely. He suggested that the temporary expedient suggested would entail additional cost.

Mr. E. R. Moore stated that drainage was badly needed in his section and many estates had 3 or 4 cesspools and still had trouble with sewerage. The houses are thickly settled, are about 12 years old and a sewer is a necessity. The board of health has also recognized the necessity and recommended sewers.

Mr. H. G. Brinkerhoff said he had lived in Eliot for 5 years and had 3 cesspools on his place and he believed it a bad condition for young people with large families.

Mr. E. P. Jones said that water backs up in his cellar from the cesspool.

In reply to a question, Mr. Moore said he thought the people of Eliot would not object to waiting a year if they could be assured of the sewer at that time.

Mr. A. R. Torrey said the neighborhood really needs a sewer and suggested that part of the work might be done before there was need of crossing the aqueduct.

At the hearing on taking land for a sewer in Hawthorne street, Mr. P. F. Canovan said he was putting up a new house and needs a sewer. He said there were only two houses to be served.

Mr. James Walton said he did not object to the sewer but he did not want to pay another sewer assessment.

Mr. Reuben Forkall desired to reserve any rights the Egan estate might have, as he had not had definite instructions in the matter.

At the hearing upon the alteration and relocation of the tracks of the Commonwealth Avenue Street Railway Company in a portion of Boylston street, President Adams D. Claffin said that the plan was the result of a conference held last summer and that the agreement suggested then had now been signed by the two companies interested, and would straighten out the matter of tracks on Boylston street. Mr. Claffin then said that the hearing, last summer was the first time his company had received any official notice of the desires of the city in that matter.

FROM THE MAYOR.

The following communications were received from the Mayor:

Submitting appointment of Geo. Royal Pulsifer as a member of the Board of Health vice William F. Bacon resigned. The appointment was confirmed, 15 favorable ballots being cast.

A recommendation that the ordinance be amended to require heads of departments to submit requisitions for supplies, etc., to the Mayor was referred to the Committee on Rules, etc., after Alderman Ensign had expressed his approval of such a plan.

A communication relative to the method of setting the Assessors to take care of metropolitan park assessments, was referred to the Committee on Finance.

The nominations of about 160 election officers was laid over under the statutes, until the next meeting.

NEW BUSINESS.

The City Clerk was authorized to pay the expenses of Alfred Danforth at the Newton hospital amounting to $44.30 from the Soldiers' Relief Fund.

Petitions of Eliza V. Crowell relative to a tax title on Medford street of Ella C. Crane for land damages on Rowe street, and of H. R. Cunningham for damages on account of drainage from Washington street, were referred to the Committee on Claims.

On the petition of the Boston & Worcester Street Railway Co. to relocate poles on Boylston street, a hearing was ordered before the board for Sept. 15th at 7:45 p. m.

On the petition of the Gas Co. for pole locations on Prince and Crescent streets, and of the Telephone Co. for pole locations on Sumner street, Walnut street, Commonwealth avenue, Willard street and for attachments on Hancock avenue, Montclair road and Moffatt roads, hearings were assigned before the Committee on Public Franchises for Oct. 1st at 8 p. m. Petition of John Kenney for one way traffic on Essex street was referred to the same committee.

Petitions of E. E. McDuff for sewer in Washington street and of B. W. Fredericks for a sewer in Park avenue were referred to the Committee on Public Works.

Petitions of N. J. Holmes to move two buildings from Homer street to Simms court and to Curve street were granted, and similar action was taken upon petition of Geo. Breeden for an Auctioneers' license.

Notice of the Gas Co. of an appeal to the Gas Commissioners from the order granting a location to the Waltham Street Railway Co. in Lower Falls and Waban was placed on file.

Communications from the Democratic and Republican City Committees relative to caucuses on Sept. 10th and Sept. 14th respectively were received, and the City Clerk authorized to prepare polling places therefor.

Upon the petition of the Commonwealth Avenue Street Railway Co. for track connections with the Boston Elevated Railway at Lake street, a hearing was ordered for October 6th at 7:45 p. m.

Orders assigning polling places for the state and municipal elections; taking land for sewer in Hawthorne street, and authorizing sewer construction therein; rescinding a sewer assessment illegally assessed upon James W. Pickering, Cottage Court, and authorizing Public Works Committee to consider matter of drainage of Washington street, near Newton hospital were severally adopted.

In presenting the order for altering tracks of the Commonwealth Avenue Street Railway Co. in Boylston street, Alderman Mellen said that the order was in accordance with an agreement reached by the two companies after the meeting of the board on July 21st, and that it was for the interests of the city as well as of the companies to pass the order.

Alderman Webster thought the board could not be too careful in street railway matters and suggested a delay of one week.

Alderman Mellen believed that there had been too long a delay already and that every day's delay would impede the work. The city had found fault at the last meeting with Mr. Claffin for obstructing the work and it ought not to delay the matter any further.

Alderman Webster suggested that the delay had been entirely for the benefit of the roads and thought the city's interests should be guarded.

His motion to postpone action until the next meeting was lost by a vote of 5 to 9 and the order was then adopted.

Adjournment was reached at 9:41 p. m.

Political Notes.

There is no doubt the authors of the "Democratic Campaign Text Book" intended their publication to be regarded seriously by the American public, but as a matter of fact it transcends anything genuinely humorous since the passing of Artemus Ward. A casual perusal of it would suggest that the word "Text" in the title could consistently be changed to "Jest" in order that the unsuspecting reader might be prepared for the surprise in store when the mirth-provoking contents are approached. Yet after all, the volume is not built upon altogether unscientific lines. It starts out with a distinct method, for after the "Spirit of Democracy"—the same old spook that made the memory of Jefferson famous—has been paraded for a brief page in the beginning of the book, then the intellect is sandbagged into submission by many pages of the latest Democratic platform. After that if the reader survives he is led by devious routes through 109 sanguinary pages which serve to convince him that the Philippine war was a grim necessity. A lighter touch follows whereby the authors, by 80 pages of fiction, figures and pictures concerning the tariff, try to prove that the residents of Europe for several years past have been buying shoe buckles, egg beaters, rat traps and axle grease some 6 or 7 per cent. cheaper than the Americans.

While the Democratic Campaign Book is now before the public in its entirety, and is really not entitled to the consideration of thoughtful citizens, yet it was launched in all seriousness and to that extent should be briefly considered. Out of its 384 pages, 240 are devoted to the issue of imperialism which is dead, dead, dead. This leaves the Democratic cy still in the boneyard, and with such an issue it is liable to win out sometime during the Greek Kalends. Now, look at the matter seriously. Do the leaders of the Democratic party expect that a House of Representatives will ever be secured by casting stones at the honor and loyalty of the American Army, or by the proposal to set the Philippines adrift?

An old gentleman died recently at Deep Hollow, W. Va., and left positive instructions that he should not be buried in any graveyard with Republicans nearby. The executors have looked the field over very carefully and have decided that in order to fulfill the old man's request this fall it will be necessary to bury him at sea.

The great trouble with the Democratic party leaders, judging from their recent utterances concerning the trusts, seems to be that they have failed to recognize the great changes that have taken place in economic, commercial and social conditions. In other words, the business world and commerce are moving so much faster than Democratic statesmanship, that there is grave danger of the entire party being fatally crushed by a run over in next November.

The smoke nuisance has been a source of much worry in many cities since the inauguration of the anthracite coal strike, and many municipalities have taken severe measures to suppress it. There was a time, not so many years ago, when the Democratic party and a revised tariff were in the saddle at the National Capital, and there was not a sign of smoke to be seen in the entire land.

FOR COUNCILLOR.

Claims of Mr. J. Howell Crosby of Arlington.

Many Influential Citizens of Newton Favor His Candidacy.

Of the candidates for the Governor's Council from this district, Mr. J. Howell Crosby of Arlington seems to be the best fitted by training and experience. For the last four years he has been a member of the House of Representatives and he has served on some of the most important committees of that body. His three years service on the Ways and Means Committee has given him a knowledge of the state's institutions and their financial and other needs which must prove of great advantage to a member of the Council.

As a member of the House, Mr. Crosby won the respect and esteem of his fellow members for his courage, integrity and ability; and his good qualities secured for him the cordial and intimate friendship of Governor Crane. It is an open secret that when a strong committee on Public Service was needed to carry out the recommendations of the Governor for the consolidation of various Boards he requested the appointment of Mr. Crosby on that committee. His service won the warm commendation of the Governor.

In his home town, Arlington, no man stands higher personally and politically than Mr. Crosby. The esteem in which he is held is strikingly illustrated by the fact that for four years the Democrats have made no nomination against him, and he has been four times unanimously nominated and unanimously elected to the Legislature.

Washington Letter.

Washington, Sept. 8, 1902.

President Roosevelt, showing little effect of his recent serious accident apart from a bad bruise on his right cheek, passed through Washington on Friday on his way south. Today he is spending with the locomotive firemen who are gathered in annual convention at Chattanooga, Tenn. Tomorrow he will visit Knoxville, Wednesday he will spend at Asheville, N. C., and on Wednesday evening he will pass through Washington on his way to Oyster Bay, where he will remain a little over a week resting and will then go west on his long anticipated western trip. The enthusiasm which greeted the President in Washington and, in fact, all along the line, must have proved most gratifying to him. The people in their desire to express their satisfaction that he had escaped with so little injury from his serious accident cheered him repeatedly and vociferously. Mr. Roosevelt declared that he was none the worse for his mishap but expressed profound regret at the fate of "poor Craig," to whom he frequently referred. Apparently the sudden killing of his faithful attendant had saddened him.

The democratic campaign book which was issued last week serves as another evidence of the degeneracy of the democratic party from the high plane it once occupied in the councils of the country to an aggregation of quarrelsome malcontents who care nothing for the good of party or the welfare of country but are each tenacious of their own views irrespective of the effect on the whole. The prominence given to Senator Carmack's Philippine views furnishes an excellent example. Although the older and more respected members of the party are silent on this subject, a large amount of space is devoted to the criticisms of the Tennessee senator and those who follow him. Devoid of legitimate grounds on which to base an argument, recourse has been had to the report of the members of the War Department's board of surgeons and professional statements which are totally unfit for reproduction in a pamphlet intended for general circulation are published and diluted upon and a series of entirely unwarranted deductions are made therefrom. The publication of such matter is ample evidence of the absolute lack of sound reasons for appealing to the people for democratic votes.

General Grosvenor of Ohio passed through Washington one day recently and talked interestingly on the political situation. Speaking of the prospects generally he said that it was inconceivable to him that any sensible person would vote the democratic ticket. For the past twenty years, the republican party has stood for progress and the welfare of the people while the democratic party has rent and torn itself with academic discussions more often than not of unimportant subjects. Internally the democratic party was rent into numerous factions which never could or would get together and no man could predict the result of the election of a democratic president beyond the fact that judged by past experience it would mean disaster to the country. The republican party, on the contrary, stood now and had always stood for a single policy. There might arise differences of opinion among the leaders in certain cases and the different propositions would be warmly advocated but there were no quarrels and no dissensions. They followed the principles of the constitution and stood by the decision of the majority and when the majority had expressed itself all work for the success of the party even though the platform did not altogether coincide with the particular views of each.

The recently issued report of the auditor for the Interior Department gives ground for the statement that the pension rolls are decreasing, and that the country has seen the apex for the appropriations for that purpose. While no true republican has ever begrudged the payment of the debt due the brave men who came to support the Union in '60, '65, as with all other debts, it is pleasant to see the end in sight, and republican leaders are gratified to learn that after a policy of the utmost liberality to disabled soldiers and those dependent on them the demands on the treasury are tending toward a decrease. Certain democratic opponents have seen fit to comment adversely upon the fact that the pension rolls included nearly a million names, but a more careful examination reveals the fact that notwithstanding the adjudication of between 200,000 and 300,000 new claims, there has been practically no increase in the list during the past year. Moreover, during the year of 1892-3 the total disbursements for pensions amounted to $156,806,537, whereas during the last fiscal year, the amount actually expended for pensions amounted to but $137,400,741, nearly $20,000,000 less. The burden has been a heavy one, but the people have borne it cheerfully and increased prosperity has attended their generosity.

THE PLAYHOUSE.

PARK THEATRE, Sept. 15.—"The Woman Hater."
MUSIC HALL, Sept. 15.—Weber and Fields in "Fiddle-Dee-Dee."
GRAND OPERA HOUSE, Sept. 15.—"Eight Bells."
BOSTON THEATRE, Sept. 15.—"Quincy Adams Sawyer."
TREMONT THEATRE, Sept. 22.—Grand Opera.

Boston Music Hall—The second and last week of the engagement of Weber and Fields' greatest triumph, "Fiddle-Dee-Dee," which has been the attraction at the Boston Music Hall all this week will commence on Monday. Nothing in the musical extravaganza line has been presented in Boston in recent years that has proved so popular with the theatre-goers as "Fiddle-Dee-Dee." The new policy inaugurated by Messrs. Stair and Wilbur of presenting only the very best attractions at popular prices is meeting with favor and the daily matinees are proving particularly popular with the ladies and children. The cast presenting "Fiddle-Dee-Dee" is one of the best that has ever come to Boston. The chorus is one of the prettiest that has ever come to Boston with a musical organization and the costumes and stage settings are magnificent. The usual daily matinee will be given every afternoon the coming week. Williams and Walker in their new comedy entitled, "In Dahomey," are announced to follow "Fiddle-Dee-Dee."

Park Theatre—The popularity of Corse Payton and his stock company, now the permanent attraction at the Park Theatre, is growing steadily. During the week "The Banker's Daughter" has drawn large and enthusiastic audiences, and there is equal promise of a warm greeting to "The Woman Hater," with which Mr. Payton will begin the fifth week of his season next Monday. Playgoers will remember "The Woman Hater" one of the most popular plays in the late Roland's Reed's repertory. Like all Mr. Payton's productions, "The Woman Hater" will be elaborately staged, special attention being given to the costumes and scenery. Two performances a day will be given, at two and at eight o'clock. Next Tuesday afternoon at the close of the performance a tea and reception will be held on the stage by the leading lady, Emma Abel Bunker, to which all ladies and children in the audience are cordially invited.

"ASKING THE BLESSING."

Scene from "Quincy Adams Sawyer" at the Boston Theatre.

Grand Opera House—Unlike most theatrical productions once seen, "Eight Bells" has the effect of creating a desire in the spectator to witness the performance again and again. "Eight Bells" will be presented at the Boston Grand Opera House next week with the customary Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday matinees. "Eight Bells" is different from any other stage performance. It contains comedy and pantomime, with an amount of mechanical effects, the latter being remarkable for the genius displayed in the arrangement. The piece was written by John F. Byrne, the eldest of the famous Brothers Byrne, acrobats and pantomimists. It is unnecessary to detail the story. The plot is sufficient to retain interest in the play and the Byrnes with their numerous specialties, acrobatic and otherwise, do not rest. The comedy part of the piece, which is in reality a spectacle, evokes continuous laughter. The mishaps of the school master and the varied unpleasant experiences of Dan'l McGee, create an amount of merriment seldom seen. The Byrne Brothers are artists of the first quality. They are supple and graceful acrobats and accomplished pantomimists. The entertainment is to be commended for the good taste which marks every feature of it. The costumes are appropriate, the scenery unique, and the dialogue always acceptable. The entertainment is refreshing and inspiring.

Boston Theatre—"Quincy Adams Sawyer" will return next Monday night to the Boston Theatre, the scene of its first metropolitan triumphs. It was here last spring that this latest and most popular of rural dramas first won approval of a large city audience and now that it is coming back with the unqualified approval of New York audiences, from the very home of the most famous rural dramas of the past 15 years, there will be all the more curiosity to see it. That the attendances will be much as they were the last week of the spring engagement of "Quincy Adams Sawyer" at the Boston Theatre seemed quite evident from the brisk advance sale that was going on daily the past week. There have been doubtless many standing in the line to the ticket office who were among the thousands turned away last spring unable to secure either seats or standing room. One New York paper said of it: "Quincy Adams Sawyer" is a lively New England drama, with homespun characters as thick as plums in a Christmas pudding, and as pungent as the brandy in the sauce; with a couple of interesting love stories in it, with three pairs of comedy and two of pathetic sweet-hearts, and with bucolic scenery and settings which extorted applause from an audience which completely filled the big playhouse that was once the home of grand opera."

Tremont Theatre—A week from next Monday evening Henry W. Savage's grand English opera company is to open a musical festival of one month's duration at John B. Schoeffel's Tremont Theatre, Boston. The sale of seats will be shortly announced and from the inquiries which have already come into the box office it appears certain that the capacity of the Tremont Theatre will be tested during the engagement. The rethe bill for Monday, Thursday and Saturday evenings and the Wednesday matinee and "Martha" for Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday evenings and the Saturday matinee. This will be the only engagement of grand opera in English that Boston will have this year and it is assured that the productions which are made by this company are especially handsome and that the company itself is the best singing organization in this country.

WORN TO A SHADOW.

When there is a falling off in flesh in woman or man there is "something wrong." And that something wrong is generally a loss of nutrition due to disease of the stomach and the other organs of digestion and nutrition. Sometimes this loss of flesh is accompanied by variable appetite, but in many cases the appetite does not fail and there may be a constant desire to eat. Langour, nervousness, irritability, sleeplessness, are symptoms often associated with this loss of nutrition and falling off in flesh.

Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures disease of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enables the perfect digestion and assimilation of food so that lost flesh is regained and the physical health re-established.

"I had suffered from indigestion and only those who have suffered from it know what it really is," writes Mrs. M. J. Fagan, of 653 East Genesee St., Syracuse, N. Y. "I had had severe attacks of headache and dizziness, with cold hands and feet, everything I ate distressed me, bowels were constipated and I was growing very thin and nervous. I cannot half express the bad feelings I had when I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took nine bottles of the 'Discovery' and have taken several bottles of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. I commenced feeling better with the first bottle and kept on improving. Now I am so greatly improved in health my friends often speak of it. I most heartily recommend these medicines to all suffering as I was."

Street railway matters are still a source of agitation in this city. On Thursday next, the railroad commissioners announce a hearing upon the location recently granted the Waltham Company in Newton Lower Falls and Waban. The Newton roads can be depended upon to leave no stone unturned to secure a disapproval of this location, and the contest will probably develop both length and heat. The Gas Company by entering an appeal to the Gas Commissioners over the condition requiring the Waltham company to light the streets where the location is granted, will also furnish a lively side show to the main fracas.

The troubles on Boylston street seem to have been amicably settled and rapid progress should now be expected towards the completion of this great improvement.

The Newton Companies furnish the first public information of their rumored agreement with the Boston Elevated for a thorough service to Boston, by their application for track connections at Lake street. This matter is far reaching in its possibilities for improved service for Newton, and President Clafin and his associates deserve every encouragement in their efforts in this direction.

The mayor reminds the aldermen that the assessors have figured closely in fixing the tax rate at $16.40 and urges great care in making additional appropriations. The words of the mayor, call attention to the peculiar position that official occupies in the administration of the fiscal affairs of the city. To the popular mind, the mayor is the one person responsible for all the good and all the ill that the municipality experiences. He is blamed for a high tax rate and commended for a low one, while as a matter of fact, he has but little to do with the matter.

While it is true that the mayor has a veto power over legislation, it is also a fact that no financial matters can pass the aldermen in the first instance, without the same number of votes as will suffice to overwhelm a veto. So that, as a rule, an executive veto is usually discounted in advance.

The aldermen therefore, are the real power in the matter of the tax levy, and it is to the aldermen that the mayor addresses his appeal for strict economy.

The appointment of Mr. George Royal Pulsifer as a member of the board of health is excellent and the mayor and city are to be congratulated.

Mr. William F. Bacon, who retires from the board on account of business affairs, has served the city faithfully and well for over four years and has earned the sincere approbation of his associates and friends.

In the next week's issue of the GRAPHIC will appear a group half done out of the representative business men of Newtonville, with a brief sketch of the more enterprising and progressive merchants. The Newton-ville page will make an attractive addition to the paper.

Alderman Mellen's eloquent remarks upon the death of Assistant City Clerk Matthews last Monday evening, were well conceived and beautifully expressed.

Friday will be the first anniversary of the death of President Mc-Kinley, and it is very probable that the occasion will be noted in the various churches.

The friends of Mr. Warren are much gratified that the sterling qualifications of their candidate for representative are so generally conceded that no opposition has developed for the nomination. Messrs. Dana and Warren will worthily represent the Garden City at the State House.

We hear that Mr. Edward B.
Breen is being urged to accept the vacancy in the board of aldermen caused by the death of Alderman Kimball. The successful outcome of this effort will be a cause for congratulations both in Ward 6 and in the whole city.

Police Paragraphs.

drunk and disturbance early Wednesday morning, was sentenced to

Mrs. Marietta Sachendi of Thomp-sonville was held under $1000 bonds for the grand jury by Judge Kennedy on Tuesday morning for attempt at burning the house of Mrs. Mary E.
Fillmore, 416 Langley road. Mrs.
Sachendi, who has frequently been in court, and whose husband is now in jail, is reported to be jealous of Mrs.
Fillmore, who is a widow, over an Italian who boards with the latter.
The evidence offered showed that Mrs. Fillmore while returning home Sunday evening found her porch afire, and she claims that when running to reach the blaze she nearly collided with Mrs. Sachendi, who was coming away from the house.
Remnants of a child's dress, said to belong to a child of Mrs. Sachendi, were discovered on the porch.

health held its first regular meeting since June, and transacted a large amount of routine business. A hearing was given upon the application was taken under advisement. Permits to erect stables were granted to Dr. F. W. Putnam, Webster park; victims. There are three cases of Death of Mrs. Cushman.

Mrs. Clarissa Alexandria Cushman, wife of Rev. Lewis P. Cushman, died at her home on Richardson street last Tuesday, after a short illness, aged 76 years. She was a native of Winchester, N. H., and until her health began to fail was active in church and reform work. Since moving to Newton some three years ago Mrs.
Cushman had lived a quiet, retired life, and was known to but few outside of her immediate circle of friends.
She is survived by her husband, a daughter, Miss Clara Cushman, who is well known as a speaker on missionary topics, and two sons Lewis N. and Frank P. Cushman. The funeral, which was largely attended by relatives and friends, was held from her late residence on Richardson street Thursday afternoon at two o'clock. Rev. George R. Grose was in charge and Rev. Dr. J. H. Mansfield of Brookline, the presiding Elder, read the scriptures. Bishop Willard F. Mallahan of Auburndale spoke of her active life as a pastor's wife, Rev. Mr. Grose on her last days, and prayer was offered by Rev.
Mr. Virgin of Dedham. Favorite selections of the deceased were rendered by a quartette. The floral tributes were numerous and of beautiful design. The interment was in Newton Cemetery.

Letter to George W. Bush

Newton.

Dear Sir: You know how well it pays to keep your carriages painted, both for looks and to keep out water. I pay as well to paint your barn and your house. We put your barn first, because that is your business—your customers see it.

You see, there are two good reasons for paint: one is looks; the other is wear. If you paint for looks, the wear will take care of itself.

Paint often for looks; and use good paint for both looks and wear.

The best paint is Devco lead and zinc ground together by machinery; same proportions as are used by the U. S. Government. It wears twice as long as lead and oil mixed by hand.

Yours very truly,

F. W. Devco & Co.

A Graphic Man's Experience in the West

Portland, Oregon, August 24th, 1902.
Dear Graphic:—In my last letter I completed my description of the various places of interest in and about Los Angeles.

My visit to beautiful southern California was at an end and it was with much regret that I prepared for the journey homeward. Mr. Harry S. Johnson, formerly a well known Newton resident, was to have been my companion a part of the way but having secured a fine position in one of the city banks he remained behind. Owing to washouts in Texas the train on the coast line division of the Southern Pacific Railroad was five hours late. The trip as far as Pajaro was on the main line and was a repetition of my journey southward some weeks previous. This was covered during the night and early in the morning a party of ten left the train to take the branch line to Santa Cruz. We missed the morning train by some twenty minutes so had to wait until afternoon. The town of Pajaro is small and uninteresting and the time dragged rather slowly but finally we were on our way. The twenty mile ride to Santa Cruz is through a pretty country and as the road closely follows the shore of Monterey bay, fine sea views can be had. The situation of Santa Cruz is most attractive and is a delightful spot for recreation and rest. The city is located in the sharp bend of the northern curve of the bay and is one of the gayest seaside resorts on the coast. The beach is one of the best in the world; it is shelving, giving fine facilities for bathing and in its sheltered situation does not have the heavy rolling surf that thunders on the outer shore. Deep water fishing in the bay is always good and at times salmon are caught in large quantities. The streets are paved and hard as a floor and pleasant drives can be taken up and down the beach, along the bluffs and into the canons and mountains. During the winter months callas bloom by the millions, smilax grows in profusion on the house porches, marguerite bushes, eight feet high are buried under their white and yellow blossoms, and roses, carnations and chrysanthemums are gay with a mass of color. The old missions of Santa Cruz, San Juan Bautista and San Carlos are in this vicinity and as all are of romantic interest they are worth the time spent in visiting them. Two miles west of the city the Catholic Ladies' Aid Society, with headquarters at San Francisco, have secured a tract of thirty acres and have established the pleasant settlement of Santa Maria del Mar. The tract running inland from the beach is handsomely laid out into tree-lined squares, has a commanding situation and the chief attraction for tourists is the Hotel del Mar. At the southern end of the curve of land, twenty miles across the bay, is the town of Monterey, which was founded in 1602 by Sebastian Vizcaino. It was abandoned but in 1770 was refounded by Father Junipero Serra, the famous missionary. The monument to his memory has been erected by Mrs. Leland Stanford and stands on the heights a short distance above the mouth of the little canon, where the first mass was said. The ancient fort, erected by the Americans in the war with Mexico in 1846-47, the old custom house, where the first flag was raised in California, and adobe ruins, remnants of the brilliant days of Spanish domination are features of the town to be visited by tourists. This was the first state capital and near here is located the famous Hotel del Monte in a grove of pine, oak and cedar. One hundred and twenty-five acres of cultivated flower gardens constitute the immediate grounds of the hotel, but in addition there are many thousands of acres of wild forest, mountain and valley lands belonging to the hotel proprietors. The hotel is considered by many the finest on the coast and has for the amusement of its guests a club house, bowling alleys, billiard rooms, bathing pavilion, race track, polo grounds and a fine golf course. Among the greatest of the attractions is the seventeen mile drive, a clean macadamized highway free from dust and mud at all times. Pacific Grove is also a popular seaside resort and here are held educational sessions of the Chautauqua and the annual conferences of the Methodist Episcopal church. The Leland Stanford Junior University, through the public spirit of Mr. Timothy Hopkins, has its marine laboratory here and the work of this department takes deservedly high rank in educational circles. On the way northward by the narrow gauge, a five mile ride brings the train to the Big Trees, a grove of giant, Sequoia, redwoods by the roadside. These trees are so massive, so towering, that figures mean nothing in describing them. Some are 300 feet high and 30 feet in diameter and in one a door and windows were cut through the walls to the great hollow within. Here in the early time a family lived and a child was born. This was General Freeman's old camping ground in the days of the war with Mexico and these forest giants were no doubt ancient trees centuries before the birth of Christ. Seven miles from here is Boulder Creek on a branch line through a broad canon. One of the choicest spots is Ben Lomond, a great flat-topped mountain not far away and noted for its forest streams, orchards and camp.

The trip to San Jose is through the Santa Cruz mountains and is a constantly shifting panorama of varied scenery. The ground is covered with verdure in wonderful variety and vast forests of redwood, oak, madroña, laurel, blanket the slopes and crown the summits. Deep and shady canons are frequent and in many of them orchards, vineyards and pretty country towns are tucked away pleasantly suggesting beauty, repose and health. San Jose and Lick Observatory have been mentioned in previous letters; the former is of interest to tourists and from there carriages are taken for the beautiful ride to Lick Observatory on Mount Hamilton. Palo Alto is near the San Francisco Creek, which is the boundary between San Mateo and Santa Clara counties. On the bank of the Creek, near the railroad is a tall tree—in Spanish palo alto—and it is from this lone redwood, oddly removed from its natural home in the Santa Cruz mountains, that the town was named. It is a charming and ideal place for homes and came into existence largely as an adjunct of the Leland Stanford Junior University. The buildings are about a mile away but the entrance to the spacious grounds is but a few steps from the railroad station. The University was planned in 1885 by Senator Leland Stanford as a memorial to his son and only child and to the institution he dedicated property valued at twenty million. More than a passing view must be had of this University, which is gradually but surely assuming foremost rank among the educational institutions of the country. Its construction was begun in 1887 and the quaint Moorish architecture of the early California missions was adopted. The arrangement is quadrangular; the inner line of buildings one story and the outer two stories high, inclose a vast court ornamented with plants, shrubbery, flowers and fountains. A stately memorial arch opens into the court from the driveway and opposite is the chapel built on the classic lines, which has made Trinity church of Boston famous throughout the world. The buildings are of yellow sandstone and are roofed with red tiles. An arcade about a mile in length faced the court and forms a continuous covered passage entirely around it. Here is the library, great on the day of its birth, a fore-ordained fountain to be drawn upon by light seeking millions of students yet to come. The instructive museum with its wealth of treasures, many of them gathered abroad, is in another part of the grounds as is also the state dormitories for the young men and women, a small village of residences, and the club houses of the college fraternities. But after all, what more than incidents are these when compared with the earnest throng that gather to take in the educational advantages of the university. It being free, in the broadest sense, demand upon it for admission are so great that the highest standard of examination has to be obtained to limit the attendance. With exceeding depth and breadth of wisdom were its foundations laid, when it was ordained that without sectarian bias its teachings should point to an overruling Providence that guides the affairs of men. With marvelous patience and self-denial has the surviving founder, the widow sorrowing for her husband and the mother mourning for her son, pursued her creative way as revealed in its inception. No one can fail to approach the classic pile without a feeling of reverence, containing as it does all that is mortal of Leland Stanford, and of the son in whose memory the university was created. May a benediction rest upon it and may its faculty and students keep the principles for which it was founded in mind so long as gratitude appreciates the blessings of human love. Many of the towns nearer San Francisco are the country homes of its wealthy residents. Among them are Burlingame, San Mateo, Belmont and Menlo Park. I arrived in 'Frisco in the afternoon and after a three hours' wait left for Oregon and Washington on the Shasta route of the Southern Pacific railroad. The first stop was at Sacramento then the train passes through the valley of the river of that name which is one of the most productive agricultural districts of California. Here are great wheat fields, stock ranches, fruit farms containing most of the fruits found in the southern part of the state. It may surprise some who have always identified oranges with the South to learn that in the North the golden fruit grows in perfection and quantity second to none. The soil in some of the northern counties has been found adapted to the sugar beet and a considerable acreage is planted each year, the product going to the sugar factories. All these products can be raised because while there is perpetual snow on the mountain tops there is perpetual summer in the valleys. Over one hundred miles are covered before the end of the valley is reached and the train goes through Marysville, Tehama, Red Bluff and other small towns. The two great mountain ranges of California, the Sierras and the Coast Range which extend the length of the eastern and western borders of the state, meet at the north and the Siskiyou Mountains extend laterally along the northern line, forming a natural barrier between California and Oregon. In this vicinity are the finest and most extensive forests of sugar and yellow pine, spruce and fir timber and some of the largest lumber and mining enterprises are carried on in these mountains. The forests of California are her crowning glory, not as sources of lumber for market but as a great preserver of moisture and as the mother of the creeks and rivers. Intelligent use of this great blessing will give an assurance of unchanging climatic conditions and ample supply of timber for all possible purposes. In the early morning from Chico the first view of Mount Shasta was obtained, its snow white peak clear cut against the blue sky. This magnificent mountain, an extinct volcano (14,300 feet in height), dominates the landscape and has been pronounced the most satisfactory of the high mountains of the world, as it stands out almost solitary and alone its height and massiveness are all the more impressive. There are, in fact, three peaks, the central one being flanked on the west by a large crater, whose rim is at an elevation of about 12,000 feet. Dunsuir on the foot hills is rather attractive, resembling a mining town and has a number of summer residences. Upper Soda Springs is 15 miles from Mount Shasta, has one of the best iron springs in the state and from this point the scenery grows wilder and if possible more picturesque. The high, ironing, precipitous walls of the Sacramento Canon are exceedingly narrow and further progress seems almost impossible. The hotel is a comfortable, old-fashioned country inn and there is a general air of homeliness very attractive to the traveler. The altitude is 2250 feet, and the temperature is quite uniform in summer, not often reaching above 85 degrees, and the nights are comfortable. The waters of these springs contain iron, sulphur, magnesia, soda, lithia and plenty of carbonic acid gas. Shasta Retreat is located near the famous Shasta Soda Spring and is in the very center of the celebrated mineral spring region, several of the finest springs being on the grounds. Plants and flowers grow here in profusion and trout and salmon fishing is good in the season. Shasta Springs is the crowning achievement of nature in this region. The hotel is most picturesquely situated in the wild gorge of the Upper Sacramento, the splashing, tumbling river being only a few feet away. Tall pines grow thickly on the slopes of the mountains and there is a rich undergrowth. Only a few steps to the right of the hotel and railroad station are the beautiful Mossbrae Falls. The first impression one has is of awe and wonder; the cascades fall from a great height and seem to have just broken out of the rock for the first time as the mosses, ferns and wild flowers are as fresh and well grown as if they had never been disturbed. The spring has been confined in a huge concrete basin enclosed in an artistic kiosk and the water is free to all who care to drink it. Near by are the large bottling works, where the water is put up for the market. An analysis of the Shasta water shows that the principal ingredients are carbonate of magnesium, bicarbonate of sodium, chloride of sodium and carbonate of calcium. It also contains lithium, iron, arsenic in smaller amounts—in all nineteen ingredients. It is clear and sparkling, of an agreeable flavor, highly charged with carbonic acid gas and can be drunk freely with beneficial results. From here the train goes on to Sisson and Upton and from there through a mountainous country to Siskiyou. Coles is the dividing line between California and Oregon and after passing through the Siskiyou tunnel the descent is made down the north side of the range to Ashland in the Rogue River Valley. Father north is the Valley of the Umpqua River, then the Valley of the Wallamette and a descent for nearly 200 miles brought us to Portland. I will describe this city and my trip northward in my next letter.

Norumbega Park.
Norumbega Park started on another glorious week last Monday and the mid-summer weather brought out large attendance both afternoon and evening. The park always looks its best in September. The shrubbery, foliage, and floral reservations are in a state of perfection, and gradually, day by day, the autumnal tints begin to appear until finally everything is one glorious mass of color with the most beautiful shades of red, golden, brown, yellow, etc.
It does not require more than a glance at the vaudeville list this week to see that the program provided every afternoon and evening in the Rustic Theatre is well nigh the best of the season. It only needs the hearty applause and laughter at every performance to verify this opinion.
The Zoological Garden, Mysterious Chateau, Electric Fountain, Restaurant, Kneeling on the Charles, Woman's Cottage, Indian Colony, etc., all continue popular features.

Literary Notes

Among the most widely read fiction which has recently been published must be included "The War of the Worlds," "The First Men in the Moon," and other shorter semi-scientific stories, by Herbert George Wells. The readers of The Cosmopolitan Magazine will have great satisfaction in learning that it has secured all of Mr. Wells' work for the year of 1902, with the privilege of renewing this contract for 1903. The work which Mr. Wells begins in the September issue of The Cosmopolitan is undoubtedly the most serious yet undertaken by him. Scientist and philosopher, he has hitherto used the delightful stories of his imagination to convey profound philosophical teachings by indirection. In this he had drawn to him many million readers who, while carried along by the remarkable incident of his plot, were fascinated by his simple exposition of scientific truths. Dealing in "The New Republic" with a plain discussion of the world's problems, he will not perhaps draw new readers, but he will undoubtedly receive the careful attention of those who have learned to follow him in the lighter journeys of his imagination. Undoubtedly Mr. Wells possesses one of the most direct minds of the century, and his extraordinary power of seeing Truth with a vision undimmed by custom or environment will give him as readers of his speculations even those who radically differ from him in his conclusions.

India Summer in the Provinces.

Travel over the Plant Line to and from the Provinces is still heavy, and in view of this fact the Olivette will be retained on the line until the early part of October. Both the steamships Halifax and Olivette will continue to make the 1400-mile trip through to Cape Breton and Prince Edward Island. In ordinary seasons the autumn weather in the Provinces is more balmy than it is in New England, and from present indications it bids fair to be even more so this year. This is an attractive trip to that class who do not have children to get back to school and can take an outing in the autumn. The enormous crowds of summer are over and still there are enough travelling to make it interesting. Besides, the things to see are, if anything, more alluring when Nature is arrayed in all her glory. All details of the trip may be obtained at Plant Line office, 26 School street, and Lewis Wharf; or illustrated advertising will be mailed on receipt of a stamp by J. A. Plandels, passenger agent, Boston.

A Man of Nerve

(Copyright, 1902, by C. B. Lewis.)

They had a good deal to say in the Tenth native cavalry about Captain Jack Benton's nerve. He had a record as a daredevil of a fighter, and his personal adventures were many and thrilling.

I heard a score of anecdotes about Captain Benton before we left Mysore for a tiger hunt in the foothills of the Ghauts. There were six of us in the party, with twenty natives to mind the horses and take care of the camp, and all went well for the first week. We had bagged two bonas and a tiger and knocked over a number of jackals when a native came in one morning and reported that two full grown tigers and a cub were lying in a nullah, or ravine, about three miles away.

A good deal has been written about the ferocity of the Bengal tiger, but as a matter of fact he doesn't compare with the hill tiger in either size or temper. Neither is he as cunning. He has been hunted so much that he is more like a fugitive cat. The tiger of the hills seldom sees a human being, is driven out only by hunters, and he is utterly without fear. The Bengal may drop his tail and run away after facing a hunter for a moment, but the other will surely spring and die fighting.

The six of us set off for the ravine, where about fifty natives had collected to hunt the tigers out of their lair, and we took up positions here and there along the banks. Captain Benton's position was opposite mine and about twenty rods away, and the ground was so open that we had a fair sight of each other. There was some delay over the hunters getting to work, and the captain lay down on the broad of his back on the grass under a tree while waiting. Instead of emulating him I climbed into a tree on my side of the ravine and frankly acknowledged to myself that I felt shaky. There was profound silence in the neighborhood, and while settling myself in a comfortable position I lost sight of the captain for four or five minutes. When I looked across again, it was to find three tigers standing over him, two old ones and a cub. They had left their lair at the first alarm and came trotting down through the thickets on the north bank of the nullah. The captain was in their path as they started to cross an open spot, and curiosity had compelled them to halt. It would have been dead easy to pick off one of the three beasts at that distance had I not been rattled. The sudden advent of the tigers set me to shivering, and my teeth chattered as I sat there in the treetop and watched their movements. The old male tiger first reached out a paw and turned the captain over on his face. He was as rigid as if dead. The female then turned him back, while the cub leaped over him back and forth in a playful way. Then the male tiger sniffed at the man's face and licked his cheek, and the female struck him several times on the leg with her paw.

Although I was too upset to shoot, I could have called out, but I dared not do that for fear of provoking the tigers. They were in a playful mood, but yet they growled in a menacing way, and it was evident that they were suspicious of my presence. I hoped that when the noise at the head of the ravine began they would slink quietly off, and I listened for that with my heart almost choking me. While I waited the cub lay down at full length and began biting one of the captain's hands. He had torn the flesh with a thorn the day before, and there was an unhealed scratch. The rough tongue of the beast started the blood, and he had no sooner got the taste than he rose up, with fire in his eyes, and growled savagely. The old ones advanced and turned the body over and back again and struck at the bleeding hand with their paws, and it was evident that they were encouraging the young one to make his first meal of a human being. He was timid about beginning, but finally lay down again and bit and worried the hand as you have seen a dog worry a rat. The old tigers ran to and fro, whining and growling and encouraging, and presently I realized that I must do something or the captain would be eaten alive. I had just opened my mouth to utter a shout when the beating began. The natives were armed with drums, freecrackers, torpedoes and cymbals, and, though they were a mile away, the noise at once alarmed the tigers. The three were confused for a moment, and then the old male picked up the captain's body and started off with it. He did not carry it over 100 feet, however. Rattled by the explosions in the nullah, he lost his wits and dropped the body and bolted into the thicket.

It was only when too late that I gave the alarm. Two of the hunters answered my call, and we crossed the ravine to the body. I was hopeful that the captain was still all right and more so when we found that his hand had not been so very badly bitten, but a brief inspection proved that he was dead. The body was warm and limp, but the heart had ceased to beat. That he could not have fallen asleep so quickly after lying down I felt certain. He must have been awake when the tigers stole upon him, and his idea would have been to "play dead." That he acted upon this idea was shown by his holding himself so rigid when turned over. I believe he was yet alive when the cub bit his hand and that he was waiting for the noise of the beaters to nerve the tigers away. He held his nerve to that point, but when the noise was delayed and he found himself being eaten by piecemeal he was so overcome that death came to him as from a bullet. A weakness of the heart unsuspected by him carried him off while he was probably bracing himself to stand the torture of the tiger's jaws and wait for relief to come.

New Building at Thompsonville—Few Changes in Teaching Force.

The principal feature of the opening of the public schools this year was the placing in commission of the new school building at Thompsonville. This new six room brick building occupies the site of the old school on Langley road, and will furnish ample accommodations for that district for years to come. The school was designed by Mr. W. R. Forbush of Newton and is up to date in every particular.

All of the other school buildings have been put in thorough repair during the summer vacation and are a credit to the city.

While the attendance cannot be accurately computed at the present time, as many of the children are still away from home, the medical inspection of schools, conducted by City Physician Utley, covered 5382 pupils.

Among the changes in the staff of teachers we find two new junior masters in the High school, Edward L. Durfee and Samuel Thurber and Mr. S. Warren Davis, a former popular teacher, returns as the senior master.

At the Hyde school, a vacancy exists, caused by the departure of Miss Florence R. Farnum, the first assistant, to Chicago, and Miss Lucy J. Mitchell will take charge of a primary class.

Miss Edda C. Locke and Miss Jane E. Stoddard are new teachers at the Horace Mann school, and Miss Miriam F. Babbitt of Dedham and Miss Grace M. Hill are new teachers at the Claflin building.

The Lower Falls rejoices again over a master at the Hamilton school, Mr. Kenneth Winslow.

Miss Annie M. Robinson is the new assistant at the Wade school and Miss Nellie A. M. Alger is a new teacher at the Rice.

At the Pierce school, West Newton, Miss Elizabeth M. Sutherland and Miss Annie W. Anderson are new faces and Miss Florence W. James is a new teacher at the Williams building, Auburndale.

Mrs. Mary A. Oliver, a former principal at Weymouth, is a new teacher at the Mason school, Newton Centre.

The one session virus has not extended very far as yet, only the Bigelow, Waban and Oak Hill districts being under its influence.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

CLEAR VIEWSOf General Bancroft of the Boston Elevated R. R.*As to Possibilities of Collision Between Street Cars and Other Vehicles.

In view of the accident to President Roosevelt's party at Pittsfield, a Boston Journal reporter last week interviewed President Bancroft and others competent to speak on the subject of the running of electric cars.

In answer to the reporter's question, President Bancroft said:

"I know absolutely nothing of course, about what actually took place when the electric car ran into the carriage containing the President. I have read some of the statements in the newspapers, but they do not agree, and I place little dependence upon them. I do know something, however, about the use of the streets by electric cars and other vehicles, and this proposition experience has shown to be a safe one to make, namely:

"That a situation hardly ever exists when an electric car and another vehicle are in the same vicinity but what either the motorman or the driver of the other vehicle can prevent an accident. This seems to be a pretty strong statement and it implies, of course, not only skill and vigilance but a strong imagination, which may be the result either of experience or of careful study."

"These collisions always happen because the person who controls one vehicle or the other does not have his vehicle under such control as to keep out of the way of the other. An electric car, of course, cannot turn out, but the motorman can know when a vehicle is ahead of him, can know when it is alongside of him, can know that at intersecting streets there may be a vehicle which will come upon him suddenly. Knowing these facts, under such situations his car ought to be under such control that it can be stopped within a very few feet."

"The driver of a vehicle can turn out. The driver of a vehicle is put upon his alarm when he is on, or when he approaches, a street upon which there are car tracks, and he can take precautions accordingly to avoid being on tracks when there may be a nearby vehicle which ordinarily moves swiftly. In other words, he must be sure that he has room enough to get out of its way. The failure to do this on the part of motorman and on the part of drivers almost invariably causes these collisions."

—From a statement made by the President of the Boston Elevated Railway Company.

"There may be, of course, cases (although it is very hard for me to conceive of one,) where no foresight would prevent a collision of this sort. There might, of course, be a case where the car or the horse were not under the control of the motorman or the driver; but I have in mind cases where, as is usual, the vehicle is under control and the failure to observe or to anticipate conditions which it is known may arise causes damage."

"I have invariably instructed my own coachmen when they approach a street upon which there are car tracks to look and listen, having the team well under control. Also, when upon a street where there are car tracks, never to cross the tracks until they are sure that they have ample room. Of course, the street car company is usually held responsible for these collisions, but as a matter of fact, and in actuality, the drivers of horse vehicles or of other vehicles which are not confined to a track are the more frequently to blame."

"People who do not reflect upon this subject, as I have to as a matter of business, do not think of this; but when it comes to the question of the life and safety of one's own relatives, it is a prudent man who instructs his driver to make sure that his vehicle cannot be in a situation where it can be run into."

BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

Much Debate Over Change of Tracks on Boylston Street, The Order Amended.

Election Officers Confirmed—Small Payment to be Required—October 6 Assigned for Election of Aldermen.

At the meeting of the aldermen on Monday night, Aldermen Baker, Brown, Carter, Chesley, Ensign, Hubbard, Hutchinson, Lothrop, Mellen, Norris, Pond, Trowbridge and Webster were present when the clerk, in the absence of both the President and Vice President called to order at 7.45 o'clock.

Alderman Mellen was unanimously elected president pro tem on motion of Alderman Lothrop and occupied the chair until President Weed arrived. Alderman Love also appeared later in the session.

HEARING.

The first business was the hearing upon the petition of the Boston & Worcester Street Railway Co. for relocation of poles on Boylston street. No one appeared in favor or remonstrance. Alderman Trowbridge then explained that the Inspector of Wires had recommended additional poles near Dudley street and near the Brookline line to relieve the strain at the curves which occurred at those points. Seven new poles are required in place of four old ones, and the present method of reaching the matter was at the suggestion of the City Solicitor.

FROM THE MAYOR.

A communication was received from the mayor stating that the Metropolitan Water Board had agreed to pay the city $2000 for cutting off the Ash street drain by the water pipes now being laid in Commonwealth avenue.

A communication from the mayor relative to request of library trustees for additional land was referred to the Committee on Public Works.

PETITIONS.

On motion of Alderman Trowbridge the petition of John C. Barthelme to move the old Thompsonville school house to private land off Boylston street was granted subject to approval of Inspector of Wires.

Petition of W. P. Sweeney for a common victualler's license for waiting room in Nonantum square was referred to committee on Public Franchises, a hearing being assigned for Oct. 1st at 8 p. m. Petition of Mrs. James Chandler for license for an Intelligence Office was referred to the same committee.

Petitions of H. F. Ross for laying out of Rossmore street and of N. H. Chadwick for sewer in Edinboro street were referred to the committee on Public Works.

A claim of John D. McCarthy for damages on account of accident on Montvale road was referred to the committee on Claims.

The annual return for rent of the Armory was signed and sworn to by the aldermen present, the City Clerk administering the oath.

A recess was then taken to allow a meeting of the Finance Committee and upon reassembling the following reports of committees were received: FINANCE—Recommending grant of $82,815.50 for city expenses to Oct. 15, and recommending transfer of certain receipts to appropriation for Poor out of Almshouse.

PUBLIC WORKS—Recommending the Public Buildings Commissioner be authorized to obtain plans and estimates for removal and repair of Small Fox Ward.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

The order accepting chapter 376 Acts of 1902 relative to reorganization of assessing department was taken from the table. Alderman Hutchinson called attention to the fact that this legislation had been requested by the board and its acceptance would be in accord with its previous action. The mayor could then present some definite plan for reorganization and the question could be discussed on its merits. The order was then adopted.

The appointment of the following election officers, nominated at the last meeting of the board were unanimously confirmed:

The report of the Public Franchise committee, leave to withdraw on petition of the B. & W. Street Railway Co. for location in Dedham, Parker, Cypress and Centre streets, but with favorable suggestions as to reading, Oak Hill from Newton Highlands was then taken up.

Alderman Trowbridge said it had been deemed wise to hold this matter open until other matters had been disposed of. As these matters were now out of the way he favored the acceptance of the report.

Alderman Webster desired the report laid on the table until the residents of Oak Hill could be heard from. He believed it an admitted fact that Oak Hill need street railway accommodations and said the Worcester Company would not ask for the Walnut street route. He believed the location could be granted to Boylston street under the present petition.

Alderman Hutchinson asked the reason for delay as he believed ample time had already been given.

Alderman Mellen said the matter had been delayed on his motion and at the request of residents of Oak Hill. He believed that these people intended to take action very soon.

Alderman Webster said the petition had been refused by the committee as the company wished to build a dirt road and he believed the city should require a paved road, full land damages, etc. Otherwise the company should have leave to withdraw.

Alderman Trowbridge had no desire to press his motion but as the late alderman from Ward 6 had strongly opposed the Parker street location on both sides of Boylston street, it might be well to wait until his successor had been elected on October 6th.

The report was then laid on the table.

Alderman Trowbridge asked if the select committee on the petition of Esther Brickett for a common victualler license was ready to report, and Alderman Webster said that they had interviewed the railway company as to a waiting room in Nonantum square and had been informed that the companies were in communication with the mayor, who was handling the matter.

The select committee was then granted further time.

BOYLSTON STREET.

The clerk then read a communication from Alderman Webster giving notice of intention to move a reconsideration of the order authorizing a relocation and alteration of the tracks of the Commonwealth Avenue Street Railway Co. on Boylston street.

President Weed assumed the chair at this point, and Alderman Webster moved the reconsideration of the above mentioned order.

In speaking of this matter Alderman Webster said he did not do so for the purpose of delay, but on investigating the subject, he found that this order would relieve the Commonwealth Co. from giving free transfers. He then detailed the history of the company to show that it did not concede free transfers until the Paul street location in 1899, and as the order of relocation only referred to restrictions in force on Oct. 1, 1898, he did not believe it wise to pass it in that form. He thought if the relocation was properly granted the free transfer condition might still apply.

In reply to a question of Alderman Trowbridge, City Solicitor Slocum said the order in question has no bearing on the free transfer question. The aldermen in making a relocation cannot impose new restrictions. The order had been drafted, in accordance with the agreements made by the street railway companies and the select committee, and only affects the tracks on Boylston street. The order makes no other change in the relations of the Commonwealth Company and the city. Mr. Slocum then related the history of the company, and said that the law of 1898 required all extensions of locations to be on same terms as original locations, and that the Supreme Court had upheld that point in recent decisions.

Alderman Webster said he believed the order was passed under a misunderstanding, as it had never been considered by the board. He believed it deprived the citizens of Newton of free transfers on this road, as they were not in force on Oct. 1, 1898. He saw no delay in reconsideration and amending the order.

Would You Think It?

Would you think it possible that you could be disappointed in the face of a woman whose shapely shoulders, and beautiful hair suggest womanly perfection and beauty? Such disappointment comes not seldom when the face turned to you shows disgusting blotches and blemishes.

In general, all these eruptions are impure blood.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery purifies the blood, and removes the corrupt accumulations which cause disease. When the blood is cleansed, pimples, tetter, salt-rheum, boils, sores, and other results of impure blood, are perfectly and permanently cured.

"For three years I suffered with that dreaded disease eczema," writes Mrs. J. Koepf, of Herman, Oregon. "I was told to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which I did, and after I had taken fourteen bottles I was permanently cured. It has been a year since I stopped taking your medicine and it has never appeared since. I think your medicine a wonderful cure and hope others suffering as I did, will take it and be relieved of their suffering."

Some of the most remarkable cures effected by "Golden Medical Discovery," have been of scrofulous diseases.

"I will forever thank you for advising me to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery," writes Mrs. Jas. Murphy, of Ponda, Pochontas Co., Iowa. "It has cured me of chronic scrofula for twelve years. I was so much afflicted with the trouble until I was completely discouraged. I also had chronic diarrhea for twelve years. I am in good health now—better than I ever was in my life, owing to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took several bottles of the 'Discovery' before I stopped."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood and lungs.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure dizziness and sick headache.

THEO. O. BJORNSON.

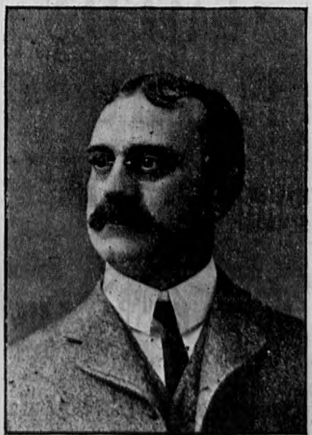

MR. THEODORE O. BJORNSON, the electrician, with an office at No. 92 Bowers street, opposite the Newtonville station, has been in the business for over ten years, the greater part of which has been spent in the Newtons and surrounding towns. Mr. Bjornson has been located in Newtonville for the last four years and has built up quite a business in his line of work.

His business embraces all kinds of electrical work in new and old houses, including incandescent lighting, electric gas lighting, burglar alarms, bells, private telephones, speaking tubes, etc.

He makes a specialty of all kinds of repair work, and can instantly answer to calls in this line where delays are so annoying, and often dangerous.

Estimates for the installation of electric fixtures and wiring can be promptly obtained by communicating with Mr. Bjornson.

The kind of work done by Mr. Bjornson is indicated by the fact that the electrical work in the Neighborhood Club house, the Northgate Club house and the Auburndale Boat house was under his direct supervision.

HENRY W. BATES.

MR. HENRY W. BATES, the popular grocer, located in Associates Block on Walnut street, succeeded to the oldest established grocery business in the village about four years ago, and has attracted to himself in that short period, the very best trade in the village.

Mr. Bates has had eighteen years of experience in the grocery business, ten of which were with the well known firm of Cobb, Bates & Yerxa Co., of Boston.

Mr. Bates firmly believes in providing his patrons with the very best quality of goods in his business, and carries the finest grade of groceries he can secure. This feature combined with the lowest possible cash prices, quick service and courteous attention by all his employees is responsible for the high standing his store enjoys in the community.

In cream and butter, Mr. Bates easily leads the village, if not the entire city. His fine Vermont butter from the Lake View Creamery, put up in neat cartons, is unequalled in both quality and price, while the very best of cream is sold in the usual pint and half pint jars.

While special mention has been made of butter and cream, it should not be forgotten that the same high quality is maintained in such staples as flour, coffee, tea, molasses and in all canned and bottled goods. In fact the motto of Mr. Bates is "Quality first," and is a substantial basis upon which his customers absolutely rely.

MR. A. SIDNEY BRYANT, the well known upholsterer and decorator on Bowers street, has had over twenty-five years experience in the manufacture of all kinds of furniture, mattresses, draperies and window shades, and for twelve years, as head decorator and upholsterer for R. H. White & Co., designed and furnished the interior decorations for some of the finest residences, theatres and public buildings in and about Boston.

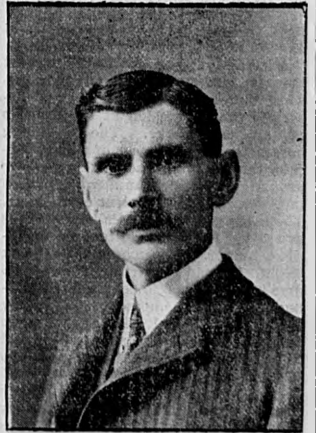

Mr. Bryant makes a specialty of designing and decorating and has had charge of all the large fairs and festivals in this vicinity for some years. Casey Corners, Orienta Rooms and Nooks are a feature of his work and the results he obtains are most artistic. Much favorable comment has been expressed by all who have admired the skill with which Mr. Bryant decorates the windows of his store opposite the railroad station.

Besides interior furnishings, Mr. Bryant has all the appliances for first class upholstery work, and is prepared to make over hair mattresses, sofa chairs, couches or sofa pillows. He will also repair furniture or cabinets, and can furnish window poles, sash cords and other upholstery hardware. In short Mr. Bryant is thoroughly equipped in every way for any and all kinds of work in his line.

While Mr. Bryant has been engaged in business for himself but one year, he has long been a resident of Newtonville, is a member of a number of secret societies in the city and well known as one of the popular end men of the Masonic Minstrels.

MR. EDWARD F. PARTRIDGE, proprietor of the well equipped drug store in the Dennison Building, corner of Washington and Walnut streets, has been in the drug business for the past twenty-eight years. For fifteen years, Mr. Partridge has been in business for himself and has been located in Newtonville since 1893. He succeeded Mrs. Williams in the oldest established drug store in the community, then located in a small wooden building side of the railroad and adjoining the old Tremont Hall. About six years ago the business was removed to its present fine quarters in the Dennison block. Mr. Partridge is fully equipped for confectionery, the usual prescription and drug trade, and carries a fine line of cigars, perfumery, toilet articles, sponges and patent medicines, as well as the very best of drugs and chemicals.

He makes a specialty of his own preparations such as Cough Syrup, Dyspepsia Tablets, Tooth Powder, Cold Cure, Corn Cure, Cold Cream, etc., all of which he will guarantee to give satisfaction.

The fine Tufts Soda Fountain with its beautiful onyx trimmings is quite a feature in the furnishings of the store, and the best of soda water with choice fruit syrups, ice cream and college ices can be obtained during the season.

He makes his own Fruit ices and crushed fruit and none better or purer can be made.

Located on the busiest corner in the village convenient to every section, with ample experience, and the best of equipment, Mr. Partridge is in the very best possible position to serve the people of Newtonville with everything in the pharmaceutical line.

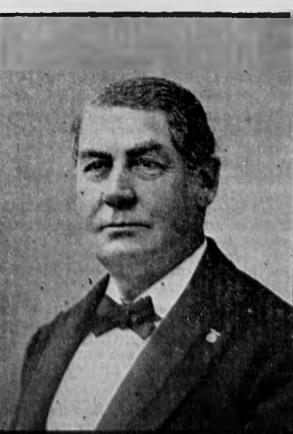

G. W. MILLS.

MR. GEORGE W. MILLS, one of the young business men of Newtonville, having been located in the village but a little over a year, has already achieved success in all the villages of Newton.

As a funeral director, Mr. Mills attends to his duties modestly and quietly as well as with ability. With an experience of over twelve years in the business, ten of which was in the employ of a well known undertaker in this vicinity, Mr. Mills is fully qualified for his responsible work. In addition Mr. Mills holds a diploma from the Massachusetts College of Embalming, having successfully passed the practical examination required by that institution.

His rooms at 813 Washington street are conveniently located in the new Clafin block, and are artistically arranged. Both the office and residence at 731 Washington street are connected by telephone, and calls are promptly answered night or day. Office phone, N. 445-5, residence, N. 176-5, and branch phones at Green's drug store, Newton Highlands, 142-2, at Eliot station, N. H., 21240, and Rhodes' drug store, Waban, N. H., 237-3.

A SPLENDID SELECTION.

After considerable solicitation by a number of the representative men of Newtonville, Mr. Chas. S. Dennison has consented to stand for the position of alderman from that ward.
Mr. Dennison's qualifications are too well known to need any particular endorsement from us, but it is not only a privilege, but a great pleasure to make the above announcement.

As the history of our city progresses, and its scope of importance widens,
it is most essential that our citizens see the importance of having representation in the Board of Aldermen by the very best material possible.
Mr. Dennison's long and successful experience in business, and his acquaintance and familiarity with matters of large importance, makes him particularly well adapted to the position, and we congratulate not only the citizens of Ward 2, but the city at large, for the very wise and excellent choice made by the citizens of Newtonville. The example set by Ward 3 several years ago, which has been followed so admirably by Ward 2, is bringing forward representative citizens for this honorable position, is well worthy of imitation by the other wards of the city. Too much care cannot be taken in selecting the right men for these important positions, and we feel confident if this plan is followed carefully, it will be but a very short while before the Board of Aldermen of the city of Newton will be looked upon as one of the model legislative councils of this Commonwealth.

The recommendation of the mayor that the ordinances be amended to require heads of departments to submit to him requisitions for work and supplies in advance, seems to trespass dangerously close to the line of legislative interference in executive matters.

The charter expressly states that "the executive department shall never exercise any legislative power and the legislative department shall never exercise any executive power" and yet the aldermen are now requested to deliberately interfere with the relations between the mayor and his subordinate heads of departments.
The charter further declares that "the executive powers of the city shall be vested solely in the mayor, and may be exercised by him either personally or through the several officers or boards of the city in their departments, under his general supervision and control."

These quotations seem to give ample authority to the mayor in the control of heads of departments.

We believe the mayor is right in calling attention to the ordinances which seemingly conflict with the methods he wishes to adopt in governing the executive departments, but we also firmly believe that those ordinances should be entirely rescinded, and not simply amended. As they now stand, and as they propose to be amended, the ordinances indicate the assumption on the part of the legislative body to interfere with and control the actions of the executive departments, a position which we believe is not in accordance with the spirit nor the letter of the city charter.

The Republicans of Newton have an excellent opportunity this fall, to work harmoniously and for the city's interest in the approaching contest for a seat in the Governor's council.

The candidates now in the field are all respectable gentlemen, and the delegates to the convention will easily benefit the city in a political sense, if individual preferences are not unduly pressed and the nineteen votes of the city cast for one candidate.

The action last year in the senatorial convention shows that Newton delegates can get together, if properly handled, and in the present instance, where the various candidates are in plain sight it would be an undue reflection on the intelligence of the delegates if the vote of the city was divided.

The communication from the mayor in the matter of the metropolitan park assessment is virtually a report of the method adopted in securing the tax rate of $16.40, and endorses the opinions expressed by the GRAPHIC some weeks ago as to the overly and treasurer's certificate.

The hard work of the street light commission has been completed, and much interest is felt in the result of their investigations.

Remember the Republican caucus next week.

Political Notes.

Mr. Wm. H. Mague was one of the vice presidents at the Democratic state convention last Wednesday.

The nominations for delegates in Ward 3 to the congressional and senatorial conventions are as follows:
Congressional, Geo. T. Lincoln,
James C. Melvin and Chas. P. Hall; senatorial, Jarvis Lamson, Sam W.
Manning and Benj. F. Shattuck.

At a recent meeting the Newton-ville Republican Club the following officers were reelected: President, W.
S. Slocum; vice presidents, John M.

Sudden Death of Rev. G. R. W. Scott.

The friends of Rev. George R. W.
Scott of Kenrick Park were greatly shocked to learn of his death last Sunday at Berlin, of appendicitis.
The news was received by cable.

Dr. Scott and his wife left Newton last spring, to attend the ter-centen-nary of the John Robinson Memorial Church at Gainsborough, England.
He is survived by a widow and two sons, George D. and Arnold Scott.

Dr. Scott, who was a Congregationalist, was born at Pittsburg. He studied for the ministry at Middlebury and Andover. His first charge was on Chambers street, Boston, whence he went to Newport, N. H.
His next charge was the Rollstone Congregational church, Fitchburg.

After a number of years he went to Europe for study and settled in Berlin, where he became acquainted with many of the leading German professors of theology. He remained in Berlin about seven years and received the degree Ph. D. from Berlin University. On returning to this country he supplied the pulpit of the First Congregational church of Leominster from 1891 to 1896. He came to Newton about 1897 and has since lived at 186 Kenrick park.

He was an able preacher and fine platform speaker. He was a writer of considerable note, among his books being "The Italian Renaissance of Today," the result of personal study;
"Prof. Park of Andover, a Memoir of the Greatest American Theologi-can Since Jonathan Edwards." He was also a contributor to the Congregationalist, Chicago Advance the Independent and historical and religious magazines.

He had been honored many times by his denomination as a delegate to various bodies and was speaker at the last two councils of the Congregational church and moderator of the Massachusetts Association, the highest gift of the Congregationalists of this state. He had also been a delegate to the Evangelical Alliance at Florence, Italy.

He was a member of the executive committee of the Home Missionary Society, a corporate member of the American Board and a member of the American Historical Society, New England Historic-Geographical Society and the Tuesday Club.

Dr. Scott was about 59 years old, and had always enjoyed excellent health.

INDIAN AND BUFFALO.

How the Latter Turned Hunter and Chased the Red Man.

A retired officer of the Northwest mounted police who took part in a Missouri buffalo run forty years ago describes the impression at the time as of an earthquake. The galloping horses, the rocking mass of feeling buffalo, the rumbling and quaking of the ground under the thunderous pounding, were all like a violent earthquake.
The same gentleman tells how he once saw a wounded buffalo turn on an Indian hunter. The man's horse took flight. Instead of darting sideways to give him a chance to send a last flashing shot home the horse became wildly unmanageable and fled. The buffalo pursued. Off they rushed, rider and buffalo, the Indian crawling over his horse's neck, the horse blown and fagged and unable to gain one pace ahead of the buffalo, the great angry beast covered with foam, with eyes like fire, pounding and pounding, closer and closer to the horse till rider and buffalo disappeared over the horizon.
"To this day I have wondered what because of that Indian," said the officer, "for the horse was losing and the buffalo galloping when they went behind the bluff." This incident illustrates a trait seldom found in wild animals, a persistent vindictiveness.—A. C. Laut in Outing.

The Wild Strawberry.

The wild strawberry is very widely diffused over the surface of the earth, being found in the chill regions of the north as well as in the sunny climes of the south. It is not a tropical plant, however, and except on mountain sides is not found south of latitude 38 degrees north. On the European continent it grows extensively from Lapland and the Shetland Isles to Italy and Greece. It is also found throughout western Asia, but is unknown in China and Japan. It has grown abundantly on the bleak hills of Iceland for centuries. It is found in America from Labrador and British Columbia to the pine woods of the southern states and on the high lands of Mexico and the Andes. The hardy plant, with its tiny, scarlet berry, may be said to girdle the earth on the line of the polar circle and several hundred miles southward, except that it is not found in the basin of the river Amur, in Siberia.

Golden Wedding.

The celebration of the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Levi L. Tower last Monday night, by a reception at their pleasant residence on Newtonville avenue attracted about 250 relatives and friends.

Standing beneath a large arch of evergreen and ferns, inscribed "1852-1902" in yellow chrysanthemums, Mr. and Mrs. Tower received informally from 7 until 10. They were assisted by their daughters, Mrs. F. E. Kimball of Burlington, Vt., Mrs. E. R. Bullock of Pawtucket, Mrs. Eugene Stevens of Cambridge, Mrs. F. Davidson and Mrs. W. H. Bliss of Newton. The ushers were Messrs. E. R. Bullock and Walter Bullock of Pawtucket, F. E. Kimball of Burlington, Vt., Eugene Stevens of Cambridge and W. H. Bliss and Harry L. Tower of Newton. An orchestra played while in a large and handsomely decorated tent on the lawn refreshments were served.

Guests were present from Boston, Brookline, Cambridge, Somerville, Lowell, Athol, New York, Pawtucket, R. I., Hartford, Conn., Burlington, Vt., and the Newtons.

Mr. and Mrs. Tower were married on Sept. 15, 1852, at Windsor, Mass. Through his connection with the Cutter-Tower Company of Boston and the Tower Manufacturing and Novelty Company of New York, of which he is the president, Mr. Tower occupies a prominent position.

He was born in Cummington, Mass., Oct. 15, 1826, his parents being David and Alice Tower, direct descendants of John Tower, one of the first settlers in Hingham in 1637. He received his education in the schools of the town, later graduating from Dreyer Academy in North Adams. When only 19 years old he entered upon his business career by founding the firm of Cutter, Tower & Co., whose affairs he has conducted for over 60 years. Today he is the president and only surviving partner. He came to Newton about 12 years ago, after a long residence in Cambridge and Somerville.

Mrs. Tower before her marriage was Miss Sophronia M. Thayer. She was the daughter of Timothy and Morand Thayer of Windsor, Mass., and through her mother is a descendant of Peregrine White of Pilgrim fame.

GOLF.

Doings of the Clubs.

News Gossip.

The fall fixture card of the Newton Golf Club, which has just been issued, contains a list of events extending from Sept. 13 to Thanksgiving day. During September, October and November cups will be given for afternoon handicap match play between members in the following manner: Matches shall be played on any afternoon except Saturdays and holidays, to consist of nine holes each; members may arrange their matches as they please, any round of nine holes between any two members to count as a match, provided the handicap be observed and the cards handed to the greenkeeper; two members playing more than one round in an afternoon may count each nine-hole round as a separate match; rules of match play shall govern, and the handicaps shall be taken as three-fourths of the medal handicap. First and second cups will be given at the end of each month to the two players having the highest percentages of victories, provided that no player shall have his percentage counted unless he has played against at least six different players. The handicaps will be changed as needed at the beginning of each month and at no other time.

During October prizes will not be given for the separate events, but the first four players in each event will receive, respectively, four, three, two and one points, and at the end of the month the two players who have the highest number of points will receive first and second cups. In addition to the foregoing, during September, October and November cups will be given for morning or afternoon handicap match play on exactly the same basis as arranged for the men, except that each contestant must play against at least four different players, instead of against six. The Woodland Golf Club will hold a handicap tournament on Sept. 27, open to members of the various Newton clubs, and a large entry list is anticipated.

The All-Newton championship tournament which was scheduled for the same date, has been advanced a few days to avoid conflicting with the sister club's competition, and the qualifying round will be played Oct. 2, 3 and 4.

There has been little movement in golfing circles during the past week. At the Brae-Burn club, last Saturday 20 players qualified for the September cup tournament. The round robin at match play will last till Sept. 30. H. P. H. C. Perkins still heads the list in the number of points now in the weekly club team matches.

The first round of match play in the Chestnut Hill Club tournament will take place Sept. 27.

Police Paragraphs.

Saturday morning before Judge Kennedy, Lawrence Murray, aged 13, of 69 Crafts street, and John Farrell, aged 8, of 57 Crafts street, were complained of for disturbance at a house at 70 Crafts street. They were found guilty and their case continued until Nov. 22.

Chester Hartford, aged 17, charged with larceny of canoe from Frost's boat house at Riverside, pleaded not guilty Monday morning. The court continued the case to Nov. 22.

Tuesday morning Judge Kennedy took occasion to severely criticize the local druggists for the alleged illegal sale of liquor and announced his determination to have the matter investigated, unless an effectual check was put on such sales.

The matter was brought to the attention of the court by the arraignment of John A. Driscoll, aged 38, of 9 Winchester street, Newton Highlands, who was arrested last Monday afternoon by Patrolman Rufus Moulton on a charge of drunkenness. Driscoll pleaded guilty, and told the court that he obtained the liquor from a friend who purchased it from a Newton Highlands druggist. He asserted that at the time the purchase was made, Patrolman Moulton was standing in front of the drug store and knew of the sale. It was a common occurrence, he said, for people to purchase liquor here. He also said he could produce the bottle as evidence.

Judge Kennedy recalled the patrolman to the witness stand and sharply questioned him regarding the matter. The latter denied that he was in front of the drug store at the time and stated he was positive that neither the prisoner nor his friend could obtain liquor there, as he had warned the druggist not to sell to them, two years ago. Judge Kennedy, after hearing the evidence continued Driscoll's case until Nov. 22. He then said that a stop must be made immediately to the sale of liquor by druggists in a no-license city. "It is very strange," he continued, "that such sales are being continually made, and I shall have the matter looked into." Only a few weeks ago Judge Kennedy arraigned the druggists of West Newton under similar circumstances.

In court, Wednesday morning, John Thompson of the Lower Falls was fined $5 for disturbance, and an inquest was held on the death of Raffaelo, Isarelle, who was killed by an electric wire on August 11th.

Mrs. Fred E. Whiting of Islington road, Auburndale, reported the robbery some time Tuesday afternoon of one large cluster diamond ring with large diamond in centre, one solitaire diamond stick pin, one bracelet containing 13 rubies with diamonds placed alternately, one small old bracelet with small diamond in center, set of three rings, a ruby, a diamond and a sapphire; one sapphire ring, a necklace of old beads, one gold wedding ring, one coral ring, valued at $1,000. A servant recently engaged from Boston, was missing when Mrs. Whiting returned from Boston Tuesday and an investigation showed the loss of the jewelry.

Alderman Trowbridge opposed reconsideration as the matter had been considered long and carefully. The board of 1901 had overlooked the Commonwealth tracks in granting the location on Boylston street, and the committee had not been able to get the companies together. At the hearing on the question of revoking the location a happy thought had occurred in a special committee which did arrive at an agreement. He did not think a small quibble like this ought to delay a great public improvement, when the order had been carefully drafted by the City Solicitor. Alderman Trowbridge went on to say that the matter of free transfers between the two companies had been one of the sources of contention and it was not wise to revive it.

Alderman Mellen called attention to the difference between the question of free transfers between the two companies on Boylston street and that raised by Alderman Webster. He believed the order drafted by Mr. Slocum was sufficient and that citizens would not be deprived of free transfers. The special committee had a stormy meeting but a definite agreement was finally reached.

The order had been drawn by the law officer of the city with all the facts before him and he states that all the rights the city ever had are conserved by the order.

He did not want any further interference with the work of the great improvement, by such unnecessary delay.

Alderman Chesley said he should not have voted for the order if he had known it had never been before a committee. He said that the order from Upper Falls to the Centre line, but had been refused as the roads do not interest.

Alderman Webster said it would be a great convenience to the Upper Falls to have such transfers, but emphasized the fact that as that right does not exist, it cannot now be imposed.

Alderman Webster said his proposed amendment would not affect any existing rights of the Commonwealth Company, and asked the City Solicitor if he thought the Paul street location was legal and binding.

Mr. Slocum answered that he would gladly give an opinion, but did not think it wise to raise any unnecessary questions.

Alderman Webster thought all the rights of the city ought to be protected. He questioned whether this proposed relocation might not be considered an extension and whether the law of 1898 would apply. He then read his amendment which practically struck out the words "in force on the first day of October 1898" and inserted the words "in the original location and any extensions granted."

Alderman Mellen said he was quite favorably struck with the amendment and the City Solicitor could see no objection to it. President Weed suggested the striking out of the words referred to but thought it needless to insert the others.

The order was then reconsidered, the amendment offered and after the City Solicitor had examined the phraseology it was adopted. The order as amended was then adopted, and the matter closed.

ORDERS.

An order for relocation of poles on Boylston street of the B. & W. Street Railway Co.; granting $82,815.50 for city expenses to Oct. 15; transferring certain receipts to appropriation for Poor out of Almshouse, and granting $1500 therefrom; authorizing Treasurer to receive $2000 from state on account Ash street drain; and assigning Oct. 6 for election of alderman from Ward 6, vice Kimball deceased, were severally adopted.

An order adopting certain street watering assessments as determined by the Street Commissioner was adopted after Alderman Hutchinson had explained that the order was offered by advice of the City Solicitor.

In presenting the order authorizing the Public Buildings Commissioner to procure plans and estimates for removal and relocation of poles in Ward 6, Alderman Hutchinson said that there had been a disagreement among the doctors as to the best thing to be done, but the present plan was satisfactory to all. It was proposed to remove the present building to a more suitable site, and to make necessary additions to properly care for inmates and nurses. Immediate action was imperative as small pox was a winter disease and the city will be roughly about $3,000, but definite figures will be presented at the next meeting of the board. The order was then adopted.

At 9.58 p. m. the board adjourned.

Literary Notes

A new illustrated magazine, with the taking title of "The Reader," is to be started in New York, next month. "The Reader" announces that it will provide the reading public of the United States with a literary magazine, at once entertaining, unprejudiced and authoritative. Further than this, it promises to be both good and popular, and not only will it contain such literary departments as reviews, bibliography, libraries and the drama but its contents will also include short stories, poems and several popular literary articles of general interest each month. It is to be a 25-cent magazine and conducted on a large scale. The cover design, by Mr. Alfred Brennan, is exceedingly attractive, and represents two opposite types of readers—an old bookman lovingly handling an Aldus or an Elzevir, and a twentieth century young lady unblushingly perusing the latest popular novel. The list of contributors already announced included such well known writers as: Gelett Burgess, John D. Barry, Alice Brown, Bliss Carman, "Mr. Dooley," Caroline Duer, Edwin Emerson, Jr., Charles Maconab Flandrau, Eliot Gregory, Aline Gorren, Oliver Herford, Rollin Lynde Hart, R. V. Kiley, Louis Evan Shipman, Henry Turrell and John B. Taub.

Across the Continent

Vancouver, August 28th, 1902.
Dear Graphic:—Portland, Oregon, is the financial, commercial, manufacturing and educational center of the great northwest. As it is today one of the greatest and wealthiest cities on the Pacific coast it is destined, by reason of its wonderful natural advantages, to become one of the great cities of the United States. It is located on the Willamette river a few miles above its junction with the Columbia and is in the center of a highly picturesque country. The population of Portland in 1850 was 821, in 1860 it had increased to 2,874 and since then the city has more than doubled every ten years until at present it numbers over 90,000. It is situated at the head of ocean navigation, on a safely protected fresh water harbor, 110 miles from the sea and is the point where railroads and inland steamers transfer their freight to ocean vessels. Portland's position is unique in that it is the only city on the Pacific coast that can be reached without climbing high mountain ranges at heavy cost for railroad transportation. It has never been boomed as other western cities, yet in 1900 its wholesale trade reached $110,000,000, while the deposits in its banks amounted to about $20,000,000. The city impressed me as having a "built up in a hurry" look, but it has a fine city hall, court house and a number of handsome hotels, the principal one being the Portland. This establishment was erected by a company of citizens at a cost of about $750,000, and is considered one of the best on the coast. I took a walk about the business portion and then an electric car through the best residential part to the foot of Portland Heights. From here a cable car ascends a steep incline over a 1100 foot bridge with a 22 1/2 per cent. grade and the platform at the top is 650 feet above the city level. A flight of steep steps leads to the heights 800 feet above the river and command a view which for beauty, grandeur and variety is without a rival. Five mountain peaks capped with perpetual snow rise a mile above the great forest covered ranges that form their bases. Mt. Rainier, sometimes called Mt. Tacoma, 110 miles north, is the highest, 14,444 feet. Mt. Hood, 50 miles east is next with a height of 11,932 feet, and Mt. St. Helens, Mt. Adams and Mt. Jefferson are the others a little more than 50 miles distant, each somewhat over 9000 feet high. Another pleasant car ride is to Columbia river, from which point a steam ferry goes to Vancouver City, one of the first settlements of the Pacific coast, having been founded in 1826 by the Hudson's Bay Company. Vancouver Barracks is located here and is one of the finest military posts of United States army, and the headquarters of the Department of the Columbia, a point of great natural and historic interest. At different times among the distinguished officers stationed here were General U. S. Grant and General W. T. Sherman. Williamette Heights is worth a visit, and the popular short tours along the Columbia river, Astoria, Cascade Locks, the Dalles and the Williamette Falls. These falls which are 14 miles south of Portland now furnish power that lights the streets, residences and stores of Portland, runs the street cars and turns the wheels of many of the factories. I left Portland at noon and went on to Tacoma in the State of Washington. The distance is about 145 miles between the two cities and is a pretty trip through some farming land, but mainly forests and timber land. Fine views were had of the glacier crested summits of Mt. Hood, Mt. Adams and Mt. St. Helens gleaming in the distance and a pleasant incident to relieve the monotony of the journey was the ride across the Columbia river in a ferryboat from Gable in Oregon to Kalama in Washington. The river at this point is a mile wide and as the boat was on her way across I was reminded of the line, "Where Rolls the Oregon," in Longfellow's Hiawatha. The Columbia river was formerly called the Oregon and the line has been used many times by those who have written up the region. Tacoma was reached in the afternoon and as I intended going on to Seattle in the evening I called on a friend and found out the most interesting points to visit in the short time I should have. This city is situated at the head of Commencement Bay, upon a sheltering arm of Puget Sound at the farthest point in land, where the ships first meet the cars. It boasts of beauty, comfort and commerce and justly may the city claim pre-eminence in this trinity of blessings by nature bestowed. Whatever else it has in its favor, and it has much, in these three characteristics, covering as they do important range of advantages, it excels all other cities in the Pacific northwest. Faith in its future is based upon its present pre-eminence, supported by sufficient assurances that the exceptional natural advantages it possesses, and the possibilities of trade expansion with the nations of the Orient, proclaim it as the ultimate goal of a progressive procession of commerce. Tacoma was founded much later than the other cities on the coast and began its existence on the Old Town waterfront, with a little saw mill, soon after the close of the civil war. Its real growth started in the early 80's, at which time 720 people comprised the population. It has now 52,000 inhabitants and the advantages of schools, colleges, churches, public buildings, fine streets and parks. Through the generosity of Andrew Carnegie a library building to cost $75,000 and centrally located will soon be built. The pioneer industry was the lumber mills and I had the privilege of going over a complete lumbering manufacturing establishment, the largest in the world. Here I saw logs, four feet in diameter, cut into boards to be shipped to Southern California, the Sandwich Islands and China. A row of 18 large ovens fed entirely by saw dust gave the power to run the machinery and outside was a huge bon-fire fed from the refuse which has been burning the most of the time for 30 years. In addition to numerous other wharves and warehouses, Tacoma has the longest wheat warehouse in the world. It is 2360 feet in length, 147 feet wide and has a capacity of two million bushels. After experimenting with all the ports of the Pacific coast to determine which was the cheapest and best at which to transact business the United States Quartermaster Department selected Tacoma as the northern port to be used in competition with San Francisco on the south. A large and commodious dock has been leased by the government for its uses and practically all the Alaska business and all of the forage for the Philippines will now be shipped from this port. I took one car ride, to Point Defiance park, where much of the tract of land has been left in its natural wild state. Here a fine view of the city and sound is had also the other side where the Indian reservation is located. In the evening I went out to Seattle and beyond, where I remained two days. This is a large and populous city, which has grown rapidly in a single decade until at the present time it has over 100,000 population. The fine business streets run parallel with the shore and are near the wharves, while the residential portion is on the hills beyond, reached by the cable cars. Seattle is situated on the east side of Puget Sound, and has a magnificent harbor perfectly protected from storms and accessible to the largest vessels afloat. Lake Washington, a body of fresh water about twenty miles long and three miles wide bounds the city on the east. The Federal Government is now constructing a ship canal through the city to connect Lake Washington and Lake Union with Puget Sound. The cost of this improvement will be about three and a half millions, when completed Seattle will have one of the finest harbors in the world. The battle ship Nebraska is being built on the water front by Moran Brothers and will cost $3,800,000, which $2,000,000 will be expended for labor. It will take 800 men three years to complete the work. To show the extent of local pride—when Moran Brothers were figuring in competition the citizens raised $30,000 and the firm secured the contract. Seattle is the headquarters and base of supplies for Alaska and the Yukon territory and millions of precious ore are received each year from these districts. The Puget Sound navy yard is across the Sound and here is the only dry dock on the Pacific coast large enough to dock a battle ship. Fort Lawton is four miles away and as the monthly expense is many thousands of dollars the city derived considerable benefit. The University of Washington is located here, has splendid buildings and equipment, employs 36 instructors and is attended by about 600 students. I was informed that the city was growing so fast that the various departments could not keep up the necessary improvements and this statement I found to be true as I went about. I enjoyed a car ride to Queen Anne's Heights, a fine residential portion of the city and a trip to Washington Park, across Lake Washington to Leschi Park, similar to Norumbega Park, and return via the trolley line. Before leaving Washington let me state that the great est industry is the manufacture of lumber and shingles. There are about 450 lumber and shingle mills in the state, with a daily capacity of 8,000,000 feet of lumber and 28,000,000 shingles. Washington fir lumber goes to all parts of the world and red cedar shingles are shipped to all parts of the United States; all over the state the climate is favorable and insures comfort throughout the year. In the Puget Sound region it is especially satisfactory, showing little variation; it seldom exceeds 85 degrees and has only gone as low as 12 degrees above zero a few times in ten years. The temperature always goes down to about 62 degrees during the night, even in the warmest weather. The average rainfall for ten years has been 36.46 inches per year and there has been very little snow. I left Seattle in the morning on the majestic of the Dowdell line for Victoria, British Columbia. The trip is across Puget Sound to the pretty little town of Port Townsend. Puget Sound has an area of 2,000 square miles and an irregular shore line of 1800 miles. The shores are generally densely wooded with gigantic fir trees and at several points are large saw mills. There are numerous islands most of them covered with timber like the mainland. The Pacific coast company's excursion steamer "Spokane," on her way to Alaska, followed us as far as the Port where we left her and proceeded across the head of the Strait of Juan de Fuca to Victoria. This part of the trip was exceedingly rough and many of the passengers were very sick. Victoria is the most typical English spot on the American continent, is a quaint, sleepy old city and is the capital of British Columbia. It is the most westerly city in Canada and is situated on the extreme southern end of Vancouver Island. The Provincial Parliament buildings, recently completed, are the finest in Canada and in addition to the government offices contain a natural history, mineralogical, agricultural and historical museums, a fine library and reading room, and a historical picture gallery. The government museum contains a most interesting collection of British Columbia minerals, fossils and specimens of natural history also specimens of moose and elk and a collection of Indian implements, relics, curios and Totem poles. On the lawn in front stands a monument to Sir James Douglas, the first governor and on the top of the dome of the central building is the heroic figure of Captain Vancouver, an officer of the British army, who discovered the island in 1732. The fact that the Lieutenant Governor of the Province, admiral of the fleet, the military commander of the garrison and many retired naval and military officers, are residents, insures a number of society events during the season. The British North Pacific Squadron is located at Esquimaux, also the navy yard and imperial dock yard. There are many beautiful drives about the city and suburbs and among the points of interest to visit are Beacon Hill Park, Macaulay Point, where the big disappearing guns of the fortifications are concealed, Work Point barracks where a large force of soldiers is maintained, Oak Bay, Victoria Arm and the Gorge.

Worth Your While.

It will be worth everybody's while to visit Boston any time after Sept. 22d.

That is the date of the opening of Mechanics Fair, which will continue until Nov. 1st.

The Fair this year is the first that has been held in four years, and will undoubtedly be the finest exhibition ever given by this well-known association.

Mechanics Building is already being crowded with enormous crates containing the most modern and delicate machinery of every description. This is fast being put in place, and by the twenty-second of this month visitors will have the pleasure of witnessing not only the manufacturing of some of the most interesting products, of New England and other States, but also have the chance of viewing all kinds of rare productions that are the result of man's handiwork.

Besides this part of the Fair there will be many interesting entertainments continually in progress. One of the finest bands in the country has been engaged, which will play afternoons and evenings. The management have also procured a wonderful educated horse that will give performances every half hour. The enormous stage in the building has been fitted up to accurately portray Niagara Falls. This will be an extremely interesting and natural scenic reproduction, with real water pouring in a marvelous cascade from an enormous height into a genuine rushing river below.

When it is considered that only 25 cents admission will be charged, and that will include everything, it would seem that the public had never had presented to them before the opportunity of enjoying so much and for so small an outlay.

REAL ESTATE

Henry H. Read has just leased Mr. F. L. Milliken's house, No. 335 Lake avenue, Newton Highlands, to Mr. H. R. Seaman, who comes from St. Louis and will occupy at once. Also leased for Mr. C. M. Little his house No. 2 Paul street, Newton Centre, to Mr. A. C. Risteen of Boston.

The estate at the corner of Woodward street and Erie avenue, Newton Highlands, consisting of about 10,800 square feet of land and a frame building, has been sold by J. B. Fitzpatrick and Edward Begley for Francis Murdock and another, trustees, to M. B. Slatery.

THE PLAYHOUSE.

PARK THEATRE, Sept. 22.—"The Runaway Wife."

MUSIC HALL, Sept. 22.—"In Dahomey."

GRAND OPERA HOUSE, Sept. 22.—"Happy Hooligan."

BOSTON THEATRE, Sept. 22.—"Quincy Adams Sawyer."

TREMONT THEATRE, Sept. 22.—Grand Opera.

Tremont Theatre—Next week the musical festival of grand opera in English which has been announced for the Tremont Theatre for some time past will become a reality. The organization which is to present this round of operas is under the direction of Henry W. Savage, and it is confidently stated that it is the best singing organization in this country. The singers are none of them of foreign reputation, but they all have voices and the dollar mark is not prefixed to each note. The chorus of this company has long held the palm for a singing chorus. In fact the New York Herald has called it "the best chorus that has ever sung in New York City." From a production standpoint the operas will be put on the stage with the same elaborate care as if the prices of admission were those which is generally charged to witness performances of this kind, when in reality there is to be no advance in the regular scheduled charged at the Tremont Theatre. This decision was arrived at some time since by Messrs. Savage and Schoeffel, the managers of the company and the theatre. One opera will be sung on Monday, Thursday and Saturday evenings, and at the Wednesday matinee and another on Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday evenings and at the Saturday matinee. The bills for the opening week will be "Il Trovatore" and "Faust" and these operas will be sung in the order named. The principals are Miss Adelaide Norwood, Miss Gertrude Rennyson, Miss Maude Ramey, Miss Marion Ivell, Miss Ethel Houston Du Fre, Mr. Joseph Sheehan, Mr. Lloyd D'Aubigne, Mr. Winfred Goff, Mr. Francis Carrier, Mr. John Boyle and Mr. Parker Combs.

Boston Music Hall—Weber and Fields' triumphant success, "Fiddle-Dee-Dee," which has been delighting large audiences at the Boston Music Hall this week and last will be presented there for the last times this season on Saturday of this week. Williams and Walker, who have been termed the "kings of colored comedians," come to the Music Hall on Monday next, with their big company of artists, presenting for the first time in Boston their very latest operatic comedy, entitled "In Dahomey." Williams and Walker have always been great favorites with Boston audiences and their coming to Music Hall will be greeted with anticipatory pleasure by the patrons of this beautiful theatre. As is the custom at Music Hall, under the new management, daily matinees will be given every afternoon during the week at which the regular Music Hall prices will prevail of 15 and 25 cents and 15, 25 and 50 cents at night. The great English play, "The Sign of the Cross," is announced to follow Williams and Walker.

Park Theatre—At the Park Theatre this week, Roland Reed's part of Samuel Bundy, the woman hater who finds himself after all entangled in woman's wiles, is played by Corse Payton, and he is supported by all the favorite members of his permanent stock company. Tony Cummings plays George Robbins, the chum of Bundy, and the other leading parts are acted by Walter Wilson, Cliff C. Storch, Joseph W. Girard, Dora Lombard, Minna Ferry, and Una Abel Brinker. The play is elaborately staged, and especial attention has been paid to the costumes. One of the most delightful features of the entertainments provided by Mr. Payton at the Park Theatre is the reception and tea to be given hereafter at the close of every Tuesday afternoon's performance. The first reception and tea of the season was held last week Tuesday afternoon, and was a great success.

Boston Grand Opera House—The epidemic of gayety and effulgent farcial effusion, entitled "Happy Hooligan" will be presented at the Boston Grand Opera House next week by a score of clever comedians, vocalists, terpsichorean wonders, specially artists and funny farce delineators, picked from the very cream of the profession. The comedy is based upon the Fred Oppen caricatures of the good-hearted tramp, who tries to do all he can for others, but always gets "done himself." Three acts are given, the intermission being considered necessary to give the audience a chance to rest and regain their breath. The scenery is all new, bright and brilliant from the brushes of our most noted scenic artists. The costumes are an innovation in stage attire as well as attractive and the music new, popular and catchy. There will be matinees Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday as usual, as well as the six evening performances.

Boston Theatre—Samanthy Green, the maid-of-all-work for Mrs. Hepzibah Putnam, went down to the cross roads at Zeke Pettigill's last evening to borrow some milk. Pettigill told her to go in and help herself. It is supposed she must have tried to milk the wrong cow, as it was dark in the barn. Spectators first heard a terrible racket, then her milking pail and shawl and hat came flying through the barn door, closely followed by Samanthly. When she gathered herself together sufficiently for an explanation Samanthly said she thought the cow must have kicked her. An audience of 4000 people packing the Boston Theatre from pit to dome witnessed the incident in "Quincy Adams Sawyer" last night and laughed, screamed and roared as they never had before. It took 10 curtain calls to quiet the audience. For the benefit of those who did not see Samanthly kicked out of the barn by the cow last night, she will repeat the performance every night this week and next week and at the Wednesday and Saturday matinees. The piece is handsomely produced. The scenery is new and bright, the properties abundant and appropriate, and the company as large and competent as could be wished.

Nasal Catarrh quickly yields to treatment by Ely's Cream Balm, which is agreeably aromatic. It is received through the nostrils, cleanses and heals the whole surface over which it diffuses itself. A remedy for Nasal Catarrh which is trying or exciting to the diseased membrane should not be used. Cream Balm is recognized as a specific. Price 50 cents at druggists or by mail. A cold in the head immediately disappears when Cream Balm is used, Ely Brothers, 56 Warren Street, New York.

Woodland Park

The Woodland Park Hotel gardens are yielding finely. About two hundred bushels of potatoes have so far been taken out, leaving about eight hundred bushels yet to be dug. The gardens yield in addition smaller vegetables such as an abundance of them, in fact, that after using what are required for the hotel tables many are sent to Boston. Peas from the vines are used every day on the table, and the table is also supplied with fresh string beans, melons and other country delicacies. This beautiful little hotel has all the advantages of a well equipped country home, and yet it is only twenty minutes from Boston, and may be reached by a delightful trolley ride. It is a quiet and restful place, yet if one wishes, there are golf links where guests may play, as well as a casino for billiards, bowling, ping-pong and similar indoor amusements.

Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Hollander are at Woodland Park Hotel for the autumn season.

Letter to George E. Wales,

Newton Centre, Mass.

Dear Sir: Perhaps you are going to paint your house, and don't believe in Devco. We'll make you an offer:

Paint half your house lead and oil; the other half Devco lead and zinc. In three years the lead and oil half will be hungry for paint; the Devco half will turn water as well as when new.

"If not, our agent will stand by this: If you have any fault to find with this paint, either now in the painting or hereafter in the wear tell your dealer about it."

"We authorize him to do what is right at our expense."

Devco lead and zinc holds color better than lead; turns water twice as long.

Yours very truly,

F. W. Devco & Co.

Adjustable Sleeve Form.
Miss Mary C. Moran, of 18 Nonantum place, has invented and recently had patented an adjustable sleeve form. This invention is one which will be greatly appreciated by dress-makers, tailors and all who have anything to do with the cutting and fitting of garments. It provides a form which can be adjusted to an approximation of the form of the human arm when the latter is at rest or hanging in its natural position, and to which a sleeve can be fitted.

The third season of this unique charity came to a close last Saturday, at the home on Winchester street, Newton Highlands, having been open since June 16th.

Sixty mothers have been given a vacation of two weeks each, and five were entertained for five weeks each. Eighty children have been cared for in all during the summer.

This worthy and beneficent work is under the charge of the ladies of the Newton Centre Baptist church, assisted by the young ladies of the Farther Lights Society.

Mrs. G. H. Williams is chairman of the executive and visiting committees; Mrs. Henry H. Kane is secretary; Mrs. S. B. Paine, treasurer; Mrs. J. H. Sanborn, chairman finance committee, and Mrs. A. C. Badger and Mrs. Frank Edmonds of the house committee. Mrs. M. F. Kimball is matron and Miss Alice Creelman the nurse.

Deafness Cannot be Cured
by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

NORUMBEGA PARK.

This is the last week of the regular season at Norumbega Park. In other words this Saturday is the last week day with its vaudeville performances in the Rustic Theatre and Sunday is the last day when all the many attractions of the park that have so delighted thousands of visitors all summer may be enjoyed. But commencing Monday the regular fall supplementary season will start and indefinitely the Park will remain open daily for the many who wish to visit this resort to view the changing beauties of nature, to see the glorious autumn tints bathe the foliage in splendor, to see the animals in the zoological garden, and patronize the Norumbega boathouse on pleasant days.

The program in the Rustic Theatre this week, proves one of the best of the season, among the favorites being the Quaker City Quartet, the Treloars, Reed and Shaw, Kennedy and Rooney, Garland and Hoff, and the Spaulding Brothers.

Among Women.

The Ladies' Home Circle will hold their first meeting of the season Wednesday, Oct. 1st, at 2 p. m. in the West Newton Unitarian church parlors.

Chauncey Ransom.

We honor the memory of the late Chauncey Monroe Ransom of Newton, who up to the time of his death, about a year ago had long been known as the proprietor of The Standard, devoted to insurance business, a beautiful monument erected over his grave in the Newton cemetery was unveiled Monday afternoon. The monument, which is of white granite, is about six feet high, and was erected at the suggestion of the Boston Life Underwriters' Association by the various similar associations throughout the country. On it is inscribed:

In grateful recognition of his insistent service in their formation and nurture, the local organizations comprising the National Association of Life Underwriters have erected this memorial.

The monument stands in front of the family lot in one of the most beautiful spots in the cemetery fronting upon a natural pond. The lower base is in rustic effect with hammered markings. The second base is of finely hammered granite, with heavy mouldings, and bears the family name, "Ransom." Still another inscription in raised letters reads: "Chauncey Monroe Ransom. 'He loved his fellow men'."

The services were deeply impressive and were attended by many men prominent in the insurance world, some coming from Portland, Me., others from New York, and even as far as from Chicago, to join with Boston insurance men in the dedication, making a company of about 150 in addition to Colonel Ransom's family and their friends and neighbors. There was also a delegation present representing the only woman's life underwriters' association in the country. Its members were Miss Helen M. Fogler, Mrs. S. E. P. Drake and Miss Julia A. Sprague.

The exercises were opened by President Percy V. Baldwin of the Boston Association, who introduced William D. Wyman of Chicago, president of the national association, by whom the address of presentation to the Ransom family was delivered. He paid a warm tribute to the many attributes and well spent life of Colonel Ransom. At the close of President Wyman's remarks Robert W. Ransom, son of the late Colonel Ransom, responded for the family. Following the formal acceptance of the memorial, the exercises were brought to a close with prayer by Rev. Edward M. Noyes, pastor of the First Congregational church of Newton Centre.

HIS EXCELLENCY THE SECRETARY OF WAR

(Original.)
One morning while Grant was besieging Petersburg, Va., a man of Jewish cast was riding on a train between Richmond and that city. He seemed to be taking pains to conceal his features behind a newspaper. Several persons in the car whispered that he was the Confederate secretary of war, Judah P. Benjamin.

When the train reached Petersburg, the Jewish gentleman took a carriage and, having driven several miles out of the city, alighted at the entrance to one of the principal forts. A sentry endeavored to stop him, but he paid no attention to the man, who threatened to shoot him if he did not halt.

"Call the corporal," said the gentleman, turning impatiently.

"Corporal of the guard No. 4!" cried the sentry.

The corporal came, and the gentleman ordered him in authoritative tones to conduct him to the officer commanding the fort. When they reached headquarters, they found the colonel commanding engaged with a party of officers at a game of draw poker.

"A gentleman wishes to see you, sir," said the corporal, saluting.

The Jewish gentleman pushed by the corporal and stood glaring at the poker party.

"Colonel," he said, "I came out here expecting to find the place bristling with bayonets. Instead I find the commanding officer engaged at cards with his subordinates and most of his men asleep. If the enemy surprises you and captures this fort, our source of supply will be cut and our cause lost forever. While the president and his cabinet, the congress and the people of the Confederate States are straining every nerve, you, defending a point which the enemy is determined to break through, are unwatchful. Do you know, sir, that in that line of works out there are men ready to take advantage of the slightest neglect?"

"May I know who you are, sir?" asked the officer, scrutinizing the speaker.

"You may not, sir. If President Davis were to come here to inspect your works, doubtless the guard would be turned out, a salute fired in his honor and everything in order. Mr. Davis knows that as well as you."

"The colonel does not recognize you, Mr. Benjamin," said one of the officers.

"Who said I was Mr. Benjamin?" growled the Jew. "Mind your own business, sir. Colonel, I desire to inspect the fort."

"Certainly, sir," said the colonel obsequiously.

Passing into the earthwork, the Jew examined everything with the critical eye of a trained soldier. Nothing escaped him. "What do you mean by such a slight protection for your ammunition?" he asked hotly. "That gun is of no use there. Move it over here. The parapet is too low. You haven't sufficient depth for your guns."

"The speaker was about to step up into an exposed position when the colonel endeavored to stop him.

"A sharpshooter will pick you off in a second."

"Do you think, sir," cried the other, "that we can win our independence by keeping out of the way of Federal bullets? Must I, a citizen, show you, a soldier, your duty?"

Mounting the parapet, he stood in full view of the enemy's picket line, but a few hundred yards distant. The officers in his company expected to see him pitch forward down the embankment. Indeed it is possible they may have wished that he would do so, though the man's bravery astounded them. But when he took out his white handkerchief and waved it in defiance they were appalled. A dozen bullets sang by his head, but none of them hit him, and he coolly descended from his exposed position.

"Colonel," he said at departing, "though more gently than before, 'we are in a desperate situation. Watch day and night. Never sleep.'"

With this he went to his carriage and rode away.

The next morning a facetious story appeared in a Richmond paper describing how a member of the cabinet had given a lesson of watchfulness to a Confederate officer.

Meanwhile the Jewish gentleman, while driving through a wood north of the city, alighted from his carriage and dismissed the driver. As soon as he was alone he took off a wig, a piece of his nose, rubbed some paint off his face, and, divesting himself of his frock coat, a loose sack appeared beneath. Tossing a silk hat aside, he took a cap from his pocket and put it on. Then he started on foot in the direction of the enemy's works.

The next day while General Grant was sitting in his headquarters at City Point one of his principal secret service men was announced.

"Glad to see you back," said the general.

"The bullets that sang by me assured me the signal was seen."

"Yes, and your exact position was noted with a theodolite."

"The magazine is ten paces to the south of where I stood, the center of the fort thirty paces to my rear."

"Very good. The engineers can now tell just where to locate the end of the tunnel. You have achieved a work as important as it was bold."

"I could never have accomplished the task necessary to play the part if I had not been an actor."

Three days later the fort visited by the Jewish gentleman was blown up with several hundred barrels of powder. But that is a matter of history.

A VACATION TRIP

THROUGH AMERICA'S FINEST SCENERY—BOSTON & ALBANY ANNUAL EXCURSION
THURSDAY, OCTOBER 9th, 1902.

From Boston, through the most interesting cities of Massachusetts to Albany, down the historic Hudson river by daylight, with its historic and scenic points of interest, to New York City, returning via Fall River Line Steamer. Such is the annual tour offered by the Boston and Albany Railroad.

The excursion starts Thursday morning, October 9th, and is due to return either Saturday Oct. 11th or Sunday, Oct. 12. It is one of the highest class excursions given by any railroad in the country, and at a time when it will be most appreciated by those who enjoy traveling. It is exclusive, as the number of tickets issued will be limited. Every arrangement will be perfect. There is nothing cheap about the excursion except the price, which is the nominal sum of $5, the cost of an ordinary ticket between Boston and New York one way.

According to the itinerary the excursion starts from South Station, Boston, 8.30. Thursday morning, Oct. 9. The journey from Boston to Albany will be on one of the Boston & Albany's luxurious trains, over one of the finest roads in existence. The traveler will pass through the great commercial centers of Massachusetts, Worcester and Springfield, and through the heart of the famous Berkshire Hills, where the natural beauty of the scenery is unrivaled, passing finally through the "Albany Gateway" to the City of Albany, where the train is due at 2.35 p. m.

To those who wish to remain over in Albany for the day, are many things worth seeing, including the State Capitol, the handsomest and most elaborate capitol building of any state in the Union. In the event of remaining over night in Albany, the excursionist takes the steamer "New York," of the famous Hudson River Day Line, which leaves Albany at 8.30 a. m. on Friday, Oct. 10. If the traveler prefers he may continue to New York that same evening by one of the elegant steamers of the People's Evening Line, which leaves Albany at 8 p. m. All the way down the Hudson River the scenery is magnificent and rich in historic associations. West Point, the nursery of patriotism and training school for officers of the United States Army; Fort Clinton, Fort Putnam, Constitution Island, and such historic eminences as Storm King, Croton, Taurus and Breakneck are some of the points that present themselves in rapid succession. Below West Point the steamer passes the famous Treason Hill, where Major Andre was captured, and the region of Sleepy Hollow, made famous by Irving. Late in the afternoon, the wonderful Palisades of the Hudson come into sight. This is the grandest point of scenery on the whole trip. The Palisades have made the Hudson famous, and have caused it to be frequently compared in scenery to the River Rhine.

Upon arrival at New York on Friday afternoon, Oct. 10th, (or if you take the night line from Albany, on Friday morning,) the traveler has before him a delightful return journey over the Fall River Line, by one of the beautiful steamers "Priscilla," a "Puritan," leaving Pier No. 19 North River, at 5 p. m., and arriving in Boston at 7 a. m., either on Saturday or Sunday morning. If the traveler arrives in New York on Friday morning by the night line from Albany, he may have two whole days in the Metropolis and still reach Boston within the limit of his ticket. If, however, this length of time is not sufficient for any one, the time of ticket may be extended by the payment of $2 to the Fall River Line at Pier No. 19. As the price of an ordinary ticket is $5 for one way, business men and others who wish to make a longer sojourn in New York, will find it greatly to their advantage to arrange to go upon this excursion. Remember that the price of the entire journey is only $5; the opportunity is offered only once each year, and the number of tickets is limited. If, therefore, you contemplate taking your vacation, or can by any means arrange to be absent for three days at this season it would be well to make application for tickets as soon as possible. Tickets will be placed on sale only at principal stations, and there is no question but that every ticket available will be taken before the date set for the excursion.

This excursion ticket will be accepted on any train out of Boston to Albany, over the Boston & Albany Road, during the day of Oct. 9th, with the single exception of train No. 15, which leaves the South Station at 10.45 a. m. It is not, therefore, absolutely necessary to take the special train at 8.30 a. m., but suburban residents or those living even a distance from Boston, can leave their homes on the morning of Oct. 9th, and join the main excursion in Albany, by taking a later train.

Remember these three things—The date of the excursion is Thursday, Oct. 9th. The time the special train leaves South Station is 8.30 a. m. The price for the grand tour, Boston—Albany—New York City—Boston, is only $5.

For illustrated circulars descriptive of the route to be traversed or any other details not furnished in this article, upon which the traveler may wish to be informed, call on nearest ticket agent, or address A. S. Hanson, G. P. A., Boston, Mass.

Prof. Walter's Opening Dance

Prof. Walters will start his season of dancing with a class reunion in Temple Hall, Newtonville, Friday, Oct. 3. This will make ten seasons Mr. Walters has been with us, his classes being very successful. He is well known to be a strict disciplinarian in the class room and a master of his profession, which accounts for his great popularity. His class will form for instruction on Friday, Oct. 10, which already promises to be large. See adv.

THE PLAYHOUSE.

PARK THEATRE, Sept. 29.—"Alone in London."
MUSIC HALL, Sept. 22.—"The Sign of the Cross."
GRAND OPERA HOUSE, Sept. 29.—"For Her Children's Sake."
BOSTON THEATRE, Sept. 29.—"Quincy Adams Sawyer."
TREMONT THEATRE, Sept. 29.—Grand Opera.

Boston Music Hall—"The Sign of the Cross." Wilson Barrett's spectacular drama of Rome and the persecution of the early Christians, comes to Boston Music Hall Monday, the 29th. This unique play has made a profound impression among priests and clergymen both in England and in America. Probably no drama ever written has attracted so much attention among people who do not as a rule attend theatrical performances. The scene is laid in Rome at the time when Nero's profligate luxury and inhuman cruelty were furnishing material for some of the blackest pages of the world's history. While the piece teaches a strong lesson of the beauty of the Christian faith, it is full of powerful scenes and incidents and magnificent stage effects. The company is under the management of Mr. Fred G. Berger, who was for years associated with the late Sol Smith Russell, and it is the only one presenting the play in America. Mr. Berger has bought the American rights of the piece and the production, both as regards the excellence of the company and the beauty and completeness of the scenery, costumes and appointments, is fully up to the high standard set by Wilson Barrett when he presented it at the Lyric Theatre, London, where it was the leading theatrical attraction of the English metropolis for over two years.

Boston Grand Opera House—From the ever recurring tide of things theatrical, there has loomed up in the distance at least one play that is destined to hold the attention of the public enraptured. This item is verified by the announcement of Sullivan 'Harris and Woods' newest melodramatic success, known as "For Her Children's Sake." It will be seen at the Boston Grand Opera House next week. There are characters in it which may truly be said to pass through the development of actual beings. Nothing remains stationary. Movement is everywhere—while the story itself is as simple and direct as any folk lore legend. Miss Selma Herman is said to present a pretty picture as the impetuous heroine, though noble and self sacrificing withal.

A Great Attraction.

Now is the time that Boston is especially worthy of a visit. One of the chief attractions of this city, that boasts of so many, is the Mechanics Fair, which is now open. Beginning Sept. 22, for six weeks, this great industrial exhibition will hold forth. It is the first time in four years that there has been a Mechanics Fair. Never before in the history of the Mechanics Charitable Association has such an interesting and extensive exhibit been brought together.

Besides the most modern and complicated machinery and the products of same, all of which is an education in itself, there may be seen this year a variety of delightful entertainments, wonderful spectacular reproductions and other attractions, to which the low cost of 25 cents admits to all.

Undoubtedly one of the chief attractions of the present fair will be the exhibit held under the auspices of the Women's Industrial Union, whereby the proverbial skill of the New England woman will be amply emphasized.

Most railroads are making special rates to Boston on account of the exhibition, and we would advise our readers to make inquiries of their local agent in regard to such particulars.

Post Office Notes

The annual clerk-carrier examination for the post office in this city will be held in Boston, Nov. 19th, 1902. Blank applications and information concerning this examination can be secured from Mr. Herbert F. Butler at the Newton Centre post office, or from the consolidated board of examiners at Boston. The application should be properly executed and filed prior to the close of business on Oct. 20th.

This examination offers a good opportunity to those citizens of this city who are desirous of entering the government service, and it is hoped that all so inclined will file applications for the same. The age limits are 18 to 45 years and all male applicants must weigh at least 125 pounds in their stocking feet. All male applicants who pass the examination will be entered on both the clerk and carrier registers and are therefore eligible to appointment for both positions.

Go to Caroline's

When you are in need of a hat or bonnet you prefer not only a new one but one that suits your individuality. Moreover you like to have deft fingers pin and adjust and an experienced eye note the effect. To trade at a place where things are "thrown together" on your head is neither cheap or satisfactory in the long run. Taking pains is the secret of Miss Caroline's success. She makes a study of the figure, general contour, and the complexion, color of the hair and eyes and even the temperature is taken into consideration when making to order. She holds an opening this coming week of millinery, personally selected white abroad this summer. You are invited to see it and the prices are reasonable at her rooms in the block of the Brunswick Hotel, on Boylston street, Boston.

The Sluggers

The voice committee will be at the house of Geo. A. Hurdette, Esq., Langley road, Newton Centre, on Monday evening, Sept. 29, at 7.30 to hear voices of applicants for membership. Good voices on either part will be acceptable.

Park Theatre—The change of bill at the Park Theatre beginning Monday, Sept. 29, will bring forward Robert Buchanan's strong emotional drama, "Alone in London," which has always been well received by Boston playgoers. The cast will be an excellent one, and will include all the leading members of Mr. Payton's stock company. One of the most delightful features of Mr. Payton's season is the series of Tuesday afternoon receptions and teas which was inaugurated a week ago. They are presided over by Una Abell Brinker, the leading lady of the company, and all the ladies and children in the audience are cordially invited to come upon the stage at the end of the final act. "Alone in London" will be followed week after next by Frank Harvey's popular drama, "Woman against Woman."

Boston Theatre—Screams of laughter punctuate the performance of the play of Quincy Adams Sawyer every few minutes, and the casual spectator cannot look upon the audience for a period of five minutes without coming to the positive conclusion that those who witness this pastoral comedy, with its golden love thread for a plot, are enjoying themselves hugely. Such realistic incidents as the husking bee, with the merry fun over kissing the girls when a red ear is found; the ludicrous courtship of Mrs. Crowley and Abner Stiles; Samantha Green, milking the wrong cow; the scrimmage between Mr. Sawyer, the "city chap," and "Bob" Wood, the town bully; Hiram Maxwell's written proposal of marriage to Mandy Skinner; the arrival of the mail at Benoni Hill's grocery store; Mr. Sawyer's clever discovery of the parentage of Miss Lindy Putnam; the beautiful love story of Mr. Sawyer and the blind girl, Alice Pettengill; the Virginia reel dancing at the finish of the third act; Obadiah Strout's attempts to run the "city feller," Mr. Sawyer, out of town, etc., all these are memorable features of the performance which stamp themselves indelibly on the minds of the spectators. Next week will be the third and last of the engagement, positively.

Fatal Accident

Saturday morning, Edith Hunter, the 3 year old daughter of Charles Hunter of 655 Washington street, Newtonville, while left alone for a few minutes set her dress on fire with matches. Mrs. Hunter heard her screams and rushed to her assistance and finally managed to extinguish the flames although not until both mother and child had been badly burned. Dr. O'Donnell was called and rendered temporary aid and sent both victims to the Newton Hospital in the police ambulance.

The child was fatally injured however and died on Sunday morning. Mrs. Hunter suffered from severe burns on the hands and arms, but required only a few hours treatment. Funeral services over the child were held Tuesday afternoon, the burial being at the Newton cemetery.

Fortune Telling

does not take into consideration the one essential to woman's happiness—womanly health. There is many a woman whose future seems absolutely unclouded who is marked by her own condition for future disappointment and distress.

The woman who neglects her health is neglecting the very foundation of all good fortune. For without health love loses its lustre and gold is but dust.

Womanly health may be retained or regained by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It establishes regularity, dries the drains which weaken women, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures all male weakness. It makes weak women strong, sick women well.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free. All correspondence held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

"I have taken six bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," writes Miss M. Fyfe, of Orillia, Simcoe Co., Ontario, "and two bottles of the 'Pleasant Pellets' as you advise for congestion of uterus, ovaries, and weakness, and can safely say that your medicine has been the means of restoring me to good health again, which I had not had for over three years, until taking your medicine. I thank you very much for your kind and prompt attention to my letter asking advice."

"Favorite Prescription" has the testimony of thousands of women to its complete cure of womanly diseases. Do not accept an unknown and unproved substitute in its place.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets clear the complexion and sweeten the breath.

The number of pupils reported this week in the public schools again calls attention to the growing inadequacy of our present school buildings. When it is known that the new Bigelow school, but two years old, has now the full number of children for which it was designed some idea can be obtained of the crowded situation in the other villages. Affairs in the Highlands district are really serious with 447 pupils in an eight room building, and as compared with the 453 children in the 12 room Pierce school at West Newton, it would seem as if the Highlands had an immediate claim on the city fathers.

The appeal for the Pomroy Home which we publish this week is one that should be promptly heeded by the good citizens of Newton.

Founded through the self-sacrificing efforts of Rebecca Pomroy, and to which she was wholly devoted until her death, the Home is peculiarly dear to this city. Its work is of such a character that it touches the heart strings of every parent, and it should require only the bare statement of its needs to ensure a generous and immediate response.

While the movement to name the new school house at Auburndale in honor of Mr. Charles C. Burr is eminently appropriate, there are many who will sympathize with the suggestion of Mr. Fiske that the name of the Pickard school would be a fitting recognition of another worthy citizen.

Letter to George H. Morgan,

Newton Centre, Mass.
Dear Sir: You know and see and talk with everybody in and about your town; we want you to know Devoe lead and zinc, that lasts twice as long as the old-fashion, painter's paint (lead and oil), and costs no more.

What would you expect of a paint sold under this guarantee?
"If you have any fault to find with this paint, either now in the painting or afterward in the wear, tell your dealer about it."

"We authorize him to do what is right at our expense."

If we could make you a better paint we should like to do it—there's nothing too good for a postmaster. We can't; it's the best yet known. And we've had 145 years' apprenticeship. Yours truly,

F. W. Devoe & Co.

P. S. J. M. Briggs & Son, Newton, W. E. Tomlinson, West Newton, and McWain & Son, Newton Centre, sell our paint.

Auburndale Improvement Society.

At the meeting of the Auburndale Village Improvement Society held in Norumbega hall, President A. C. Farley occupied the chair and there was a good attendance. Hon. E. L. Pickard spoke earnestly in favor of resolutions requesting the school committee to give the name of the Charles C. Burr school to the new building now being erected on Ash street. Alderman Brown and Mr. W. H. Blood cordially endorsed the idea.

Mr. G. M. Fiske, while not opposing the resolutions suggested that an other appropriate name would be the Pickard school. The Burr resolutions were then adopted. Mr. Fiske then presented resolutions requesting cooperation between the street railways and the city, in the erection of suitable shelter at the junction of Commonwealth avenue and Washington street. The resolutions were also favored by Mr. A. J. Devoe and adopted. A discussion of the new caucus laws then followed.

The principal speech being made by Mr. J. T. Langford. Secretary J. F. Ryder and others also spoke. The annual meeting of this society takes place next Thursday night and G. M. Fiske, E. E. Hardy and G. H. Bourne were appointed a nominating committee.

SHINING MARKS.

Death Strikes Down Two Prominent Citizens.

Mr. Edwin W. Gay and Mr. William Hopkins Dead.

Mr. Edwin W. Gay, one of the old residents of Newton and an ex-president of the Common Council, dropped dead while transacting some business at the Newton National Bank last Wednesday morning. Dr. McIntosh was immediately called in but life was extinct. His death is attributed to heart failure.

Mr. Gay was 57 years old and had lived in Newton since his boyhood. He was born in Boston in 1845, and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron R. Gay, the former one of the pioneers in the stationery business in Boston. He attended the public schools of Boston, removing to Newton when a young man, and completed his education here. He entered the employ of his father at 122 State street, Boston, and upon the latter's death assumed charge of the business until about a year ago, when he retired from active life.

Mr. Gay was one of the most prominent figures in the stationery business in New England. He was at all times interested in the progress and welfare of the city. During the years 1880-81-82-83, he represented his ward in the common council, a part of the time as president of that body.

Mr. Gay was a member of Dalhousie Masonic Lodge and one of its past grand masters. He was also a Knight Templar and on the roll of Charles Ward Post, G. A. R., as well as several other local organizations.

For many years he was one of the most active members of the Newton Methodist church.

His wife survives him.

Funeral services will be held at the Methodist church, Tuesday afternoon at 2.30.

Mr. William Hopkins, to many known as the "Bud Brier" of the Boston Globe, died at his home on Champa avenue, Newton Upper Falls, Wednesday afternoon about 5 o'clock, after an illness of about two months. Funeral services were held this morning at St. Mary's church, and the body will be taken to Zanesville, O., for burial.

Mr. Hopkins was the assistant day editor of the Globe, and for the last eleven years had charge of the "Under the Rose" column, which he imbued with his own personality, until it became an aid and inspiration for good in many.

William Hopkins was born in Boston in 1865, and was therefore only 37 years of age. His father died when he was a child, and he was taken to Zanesville, O., where he attended the Latin and High school. He later studied at St. Columba's academy.

When he was still a boy he became a reporter on the Daily Times of Zanesville. Later he was editor and proprietor of the Zanesville News, and south-eastern Ohio correspondent for the Cincinnati Enquirer, Chicago Times and New York World.

In 1888, after this experience as a newspaper man, Mr. Hopkins returned to his birthplace and entered the employ of the Globe as a news editor upon the night staff. He was soon transferred to the day staff. For a short time he did special writing. Next he was made assistant to the day editor, a position he has held nearly 14 years.

Mr. Hopkins was intensely interested in everything that tended towards improving the village in which he lived and his death will be deeply mourned by all.

He is survived by a mother and sister.

—The funeral of Miss Jane Fleming, who died Wednesday, was held from the residence of her sister, Mrs. Edward O'Halloran on Clinton street, this morning at 8.30. Services followed at the Church of Our Lady at 9 o'clock, and were largely attended by relatives and friends.

—James Harrigan, 21 years of age and a son of Patrick Harrigan of Green street, was terribly injured in the yard of the South Station about 10.45 Monday night. Harrigan was employed as a brakeman and it is supposed he jumped off an incoming train directly in front of one leaving the station. His right leg was crushed, the left fractured and internal injuries received. He was taken to the Massachusetts General Hospital and died a few hours later. The funeral was held from his late residence on Green street, yesterday morning at 8.30, services following at the Church of Our Lady at 9 o'clock. At the church high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Fr. Dolan. The interment was at Holyhood cemetery, Brookline. The pallbearers were Messrs. John Thomas, Jr., Leo F. J. Murray, Bernard Macklin, Patrick Collins, Bert Stuart and James Macklin.

—Mrs. Scelchi was in a very sad way if she met any one who squinted, and she would go through a whole host of evolutions to rid herself of the evil spell.

—Mario's fobbe was smoking. As smoking was forbidden at the theater, he would never sign a contract until the clause which made him an exception to the rule was inserted. He would have his valet waiting in the wings with a match and a cigar and would rush off the stage, take a few whiffs and then return to a tender love scene. The cigars that he smoked cost him half a crown, and he never more than partially finished one. Even the street boys in London knew him, and when they followed his carriage, cheering, he would have a handful of coins ready to toss to them.—Exchange.

The Sunday Horse.

A correspondent writing from Germany says one sees there many wagons designed for two horses, but drawn by one. It gives the vehicle the appearance of being out on the bias. "I inquired once why they did not have two horses, or else use shafts, and was charmed to learn that as keeping two horses was naturally more expensive people generally drove but one during the week and roated another horse on Sunday, when the family could drive out in style. It was a touching thought to keep the Sunday horse's place for him all week, but reminded one sadly of the vacant chair."

Out on a Howl.

"You have asked me to be your wife," remarked the wealthy "maldon lady." "Before I answer you please tell me one thing. Are you in favor of woman suffrage?" "I am," he answered, thinking thus to win her.

"Then I cannot be yours," she said. "My husband must regard me not as his equal, but as a tender child whom he has taken to love and to cherish."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Golden Anniversary

One of the pleasantest affairs in this city took place on Wednesday evening at the residence of Dr. and Mrs. Alvah Hovey on Summer street, Newton Centre when this well known and loved couple observed their golden wedding.

Dr. Hovey was for many years the president of the Newton Theological Institution and is therefore well known in Baptist and religious circles.

A reception was held in the parlors, Dr. and Mrs. Hovey standing beneath a floral screen on which, in yellow chrysanthemums, was inscribed "1852-1902." They were assisted in receiving by their two oldest grandchildren, Miss Lucy A. Gow and Arthur C. Gow of Somerville. The ushers were Prof. George R. Hovey of Richmond Union University, Richmond, Va., Fred H. Hovey of Newton Centre and the Rev. John Gow of Somerville. Music and refreshments added to the pleasure of the occasion.

Representatives of the trustees and boards of directors of Brown University, Providence, R. I., Wellesley College, Worcester Academy, New England Conservatory of Music, A. G. and Arthur C. These Are the Nights and Mornings

PRESIDENT WINTERGREEN'S MISTAKE

(Copyright, 1902, by the R. R. McClure Company.)

The president of the International Insurance company was enjoying the most peaceful period of a busy man's everyday life, the half hour after lunch, when the remembrance of a good meal is enhanced by the fumes of a fragrant Havana. There was an unwritten law in the offices of the company that under no circumstances should the president be disturbed for thirty minutes after returning from lunch.

Small wonder that Muggsy, the office boy, trembled with apprehension as he knocked softly at the door of the president's office ere the prescribed thirty minutes had passed. The usually placid brow of the president darkened as he growled:

"Come in."

"Please, sir," said Muggsy apologetically, "the gentleman who gave me this note said it was most important, sir, and that no one else but you would do."

The president took the carefully sealed envelope and scanned the address carelessly: "Silas Wintergreen, Esq. Most important and absolutely private."

"H'm," muttered the president as Muggsy retreated to a discreet distance. "Most important and absolutely private." What the deuce!

The contents, however, proved more extraordinary than the address. Mr. Silas Wintergreen:

Sir—If you will spare me five minutes of your time, I will give you some very important information which involves the saving for your company of many thousands of dollars. Yours respectfully, ADAM BUTTON.

"Tell him to come in," said the president. Muggsy retired and soon reappeared, followed by a small, thin, prematurely gray haired individual, whose deep set black eyes roved anxiously about the room. Muggsy respectfully made his absence conspicuous.

"Mr. Wintergreen," said the stranger, "my name is Button—Adam Button, sir. I am an old patron of your company and now carry $75,000 insurance with you." Mr. Wintergreen unbent considerably and coughed a polite response. The stranger continued: "I am in the employ of Bonds & Co., with whom you are no doubt acquainted. I am their confidential man and handle all of their out of town business." More unbending on the part of the president and a still friendlier cough.

"Some time ago," said the stranger, "I was induced to speculate a little with my earnings. I won, and, as is the invariable rule, I tried the game of chance again. This time I won more. Then I received what I believed to be a sure tip on the market. So sure was I that I appropriated—borrowed is the term I then gave it—the sum of $25,000 belonging to my employers. Suffice to say that I lost everything."

Silas Wintergreen stiffened in his revolving chair. What did this man want—an embezzler, a thief—what could he want of the president of the International Insurance company?

"Mr. Wintergreen," continued the stranger, "my life is worth $75,000 to your company. Should I die tonight either accidentally or by suicide your company would have to pay my heirs $75,000 in gold." The president sat bolt upright in his chair. "Mr. Wintergreen, if I cannot make good my embezzlement by tomorrow at this time I am a ruined man. My employers will discover the theft, and I will be sent to jail. I cannot stand this. I would rather meet death a thousand times in a thousand forms. I had already concluded to make an end of my miserable existence when I thought of a plan. Should I die your company pays $75,000; should I live your company pays nothing."

Adam Button paused. He mopped his moist brow with his handkerchief. "Well," said the president in a cold tone—"well?"

"Well," replied Adam Button, "I have a proposition to make your company. If you will pay me $23,000, I will give up my policy to you. If not, I will kill myself today and your company will lose $75,000."

The president deliberated some time. Presently an amused smile covered his smooth shaven features as he replied: "My dear fellow, that's the best hold-up game I ever heard of. Do you think I was born yesterday? Not on your life!"

Two red spots burned on the stranger's cheeks. "Before God, Mr. Wintergreen, I am telling the truth. It's my only chance. For the love of mercy, believe that I am serious."

"Oh, tomorrow!" replied Mr. Silas Wintergreen as he turned his back on the trembling stranger. "Get out! Hey, Muggsy!"

Muggsy appeared and, taking his cue from a wave of the president's hand, ushered the stranger from the room.

The dusk of the evening had already fallen upon the metropolis when the president of the International Insurance company boarded the State Central suburban train for his country home at Veranda. His regular newsboy at the depot had handed him his favorite evening paper. The president entered the smoker and settled himself down in the cushioned seat for a few puffs and a glance at the news. Glimping headlines on the front page immediately caught his eye:

REMEMOR LEADS TO SUICIDE.

Confidential Clerk of Bonds & Co. Snuffs Out Life With Pistol Ball.

Adam Button Was Shot $23,000—Meets Death Rather Than Justice.

Carried Heavy Insurance.

The president of the International Insurance company let his cigar fall from his lips to the floor.

"Well," said he, "I'll be blanked!"

Across the Continent

A Graphic Man's Experience in the West

Newton, Sept. 1st, 1902.

Dear Graphic: My last letter closed with a partial description of Victoria. The Chinese quarter of Victoria is an interesting locality with its joss house, theatre and queer looking stores filled with all kinds of Oriental goods. If one spends a few days in the vicinity and enjoys fishing and hunting, excursions should be taken to the islands of the Gulf of Georgia, Oyster Harbour and to the many lakes which abound in this region.

The steamer, "Charmar," of the Victoria-Vancouver line, on which I was a passenger, sailed about midnight. The route is across the Gulf of Georgia and the distance to Vancouver, on the opposite side of the mainland, is 84 miles. We arrived in the early morning and spent the six hours of my stay in exploring the place. The City is one of the youngest in the dominion, is 16 years old and has a population of 30,000. In July, 1886, all of the wooden houses, excepting one, were swept away by fire. From the ashes a new city was built with fine stone and brick buildings, handsome dwellings, excellent hotels, a good street railway system and all the other accompaniments of civilization. The harbor is a noble one and the long line of wharves are always well filled with shipping. A pleasant trip in the cars is around the circuit and goes through the resident part, over the hills and along the water front. There is a beautiful natural park named for Lord Stanley of Preston, at one time Governor General of the Dominion, and on English Bay are located a number of pleasant summer resorts. This is the western terminus of the Canadian Pacific Railway, whose lines cross the continent to the Atlantic Ocean. A railway from the Atlantic to the Pacific, all the way on British soil, was long the dream of a few in Canada. At this time this dream became a possibility and on the confederation of the British North American Provinces in 1867 it was found to be a political necessity. Then the government of the new dominion set about the building of the Canadian Pacific Railway, a work of such vast proportion that it seemed in those early days, almost an impossibility. Much of the country through which the road must be built was unexplored; there were hundreds of miles of plain, known only to the wild Indian and the fur trader, mountain ranges and canons in unknown numbers, rivers and gorges all of which must be surveyed and connected before the undertaking would reach a successful completion. There was considerable delay owing to differences of opinion which became questions of domestic politics and it was not until 1875 that the work of construction began. A government is ill adapted to carry on such an enterprise owing to changing political conditions and in 1880 it was decided to turn over the work to a private company. Conditions had also changed. Thousands of people had settled in the northwest, the vast forests of timber had been discovered and mineral deposits of incalculable value were being found. Owing to these discoveries the political reasons for building the railway were lost sight of and commercial reasons took their place. There was no difficulty in finding a party of capitalists ready and willing to carry on such an enterprise. The result being that the Canadian Pacific Railway Company was organized in 1881. The new organization entered into a contract with the government to complete the line within ten years and such energy was put into the work that rapid progress was made. The section from the Ottawa river to and around Lake Superior was surveyed and the tracks were laid from Winnipeg, westward across the prairies. The first year 130 miles were completed and during the second year the rails advanced 450 miles.

The end of the third year found them at the summit of the Rocky Mountains, and the fourth in the Selkirk range, nearly 1050 miles from Winnipeg. During this period good prices were being made in Eastern Canada and in 1885 it was united with the Canadian Northwest by a continuous railway. The government section from the Pacific coast eastward was now some 250 miles inland and the company took up the work and carried it on to a connection with a line advancing eastward across the Rockies and Selkirk. The forces working towards each other met in Eagle Pass in the Columbia range of mountains on November 7th 1885 and at that point the last rail was laid in the main line. The close of 1885 found the company, not yet five years old, in possession of 4315 miles of railway, including the longest continuous line in the world, extending from Quebec and Montreal across the continent to the Pacific Ocean, a distance of over 3050 miles. By midsummer of 1890 all this vast system was fully equipped and in working order. The station at Vancouver is a handsome building of stone and brick and at one o'clock in the afternoon I left from here on the Atlantic express for my long trip eastward. The line follows the shore of Burrard Inlet for thirteen miles, then cuts across the Fraser river and goes on to Mission Junction, where the railway from Seattle joins the main line. Ruby Creek is named from the garnets found in the vicinity and above Hope, the Valley of the Fraser is transformed into a wonderful canyon, where there are tall cliffs and grand scenery. After leaving North Bend the canon of the Thompson river is entered and the railway runs upon a ledge cut out of the hills on the irregular south side of the stream. Fifty miles further eastward are the great Shuswap lakes and for considerable distance the track winds in and out, following the southern margin of these lakes. At the Eagle Pass, famous in the early history of the road, the Gold Range is crossed and the next important point is Revelstoke on the Columbia river. Here an observation car, specially designed to allow an unbroken view of the wonderful mountain scenery was attached. The views between this town and Calgary, a stretch of 200 miles, are considered the best on the main line. The Selkirk Range, the valley of the Illecillewaet River is soon entered and then the ascent begins. Looking up the valley from Cougar Mountain a magnificent view is had of the peaks near the summit of the Selkirk range. Sir Donald, the highest of them all, near the center of the picture. Sweeping heavily to the right the track touches the base of Ross Peak and turning back to the left across the valley leading down from Ross Peak Glacier it forms a double loop like the letter S. Continuing the ascent around the mountain side Glacier House is reached, the station and hotel being 4122 feet above the sea. Here dinner was served and I had a pleasant chat with one of the Swiss guides whom the railroad company brings from Europe each summer. Within thirty minutes walk from the hotel is the Great Glacier of the Selkirk range and at the left Sir Donald rises a naked and abrupt pyramid, in height a mile and quarter above the railway. This stately monolith was named after Sir Donald Smith, now Lord of the Isles and Earl of Rosslyn, one of the chief promoters of the railroad. The great glacier which I had the privilege of seeing plainly through a glass is a mile and a half away and its receding base is only a few hundred feet above the level of the hotel. The average motion or advance of this great snow and ice field, near the centre, is between six and seven inches a day. The width of the glacier is about one-third of a mile. A portion of it had broken away the night previous and I could see the blue green ice of the cleft side, the clean color showing plainly in contrast to the surrounding dirty snow. The summit of Rogers Pass is about 200 feet above Glacier and after that the line descends the valley of the Beaver. The engineers could not get through these great mountain ranges by following the valley of the mountain streams and so in crossing the Rockies the line follows the canons of the Kicking Horse. On western slope of the Canadian Rockies the government has set aside the Yoho Park Reservation which with the Canadian National Park in the east is a territory of untrampled nature. In this new public reserve are the Yoho Valley, Field the well known summer resort near the base of Mount Stephen, the Ice River Valley, part of the Van Horn range, the Ottertail group and a vast region of unmeasured peaks, undiscovered glaciers, snow fields and magnificent water falls far outstripping Niagara in height. Mr. Edwards Whyner, the noted mountaineer says, "The Canadian Rockies and the Selkirk differ largely from the Swiss Alps in that they are more uniform in height. There are not so many dominating peaks as in the Alps which rise to much greater altitudes than the rest of the ranges but from any of the heights of the Rockies the outlook is a magnificent one. The vast ranges are appalling in their immensity and grandeur for here are fifty or sixty Switzerland rolled into one. If all the mountain climbers in the world today were to make a combined attempt to explore the Canadian Rockies their task would not be completed within a century." From the international boundary there stretches northward a crevice line of peaks, many of them reaching altitudes of 10,000 feet and a few 15,000 feet. We had supper at the Mount Stephen House at Field and near here is a fossil bed rich in rare specimens of trilobite of much interest to naturalists. The elevation is 4,050 feet and seven miles beyond reaches an altitude of 5296 feet. This is the "Great Divide," and here a mountain brook splits its waters into two streams, the one flowing to Hudson Bay and the other to the Pacific. This place is called Laggan and at this point is the backbone of the continent. The famous lakes of the clouds, Louise, Mirror and Agnes, three beautiful sheets of water nestling at the foot of the mountains and hidden high up above the valley are reached from this town. The water of the west lies through the entire breadth of the National Park, the track running down the valley of the Bow River as far as Banff. As the shades of evening began to gather threatening clouds appeared but the rain did not materialize; the sun setting behind the mountains, and the cloud effects were very fine. I feared that the remainder of the trip would be in darkness, that I had seen the last of the Rockies, but to my surprise the light held until we passed by the highest peaks. Sharply silhouetted against the sky the bare, rugged and serrated Sawback range with the white and shining glaciers, Castle and Massive mountains were strongly in evidence. We rolled into Banff about ten o'clock at night and a number of passengers left for a few days stay in the vicinity. This is the station in the Canadian National Rocky Mountains Park and in addition to its wealth of natural beauty has a wide reputation as a medicinal watering place. Tourists sometimes speak of it as the "Carlsbad of America." The village is a short distance southwest of the station and across the bridge is the Hot Springs hotel. Though chiefly a resort of tourists and pleasure seekers the waters have properties that are commended strongly by medical men. The

Mrs. Lincoln's Cook Book is the standard Cook Book of New England and as much a necessity in the home as the daily paper. The new edition published by Little, Brown & Co., contains 15 illustrations and 250 additional receipts. Its title The Boston Cook Book. What to do and what not to do in Cooking, tells the whole story. 12 m. $2.00. It is the trimmest, best arranged, best illustrated, most intelligible manual of cookery as a high art, and as an economic art, that has appeared.—Independent. It tells the most simple and practical and exact way those little things which women ought to know but have generally to learn by sad experience. It ought to be in every household.—Philadelphia Press.

It is doubtful if any one ever has written a more thrilling football story than Susan Keating Glaspeil's "By the Might of the Pig-Skin," in the October National. Every lover of the game, and every lover of fiction will be delighted with it. The same number contains also the first section of "In the Lonesome, Silent South," an intensely dramatic story of mystery and murder, by Eva Hampton Prather of Atlanta, Georgia, a young writer whose first work is now appearing in the National. Norman H. Crowell, the Sioux Rapids, Iowa, bank cashier who, like E. C. Stedman the poet, successfully unites the literary and the financial professions, contributes another of amusing stories of Irish life. "Terry Ahern's Wooing. Terry wins his Molly by winning a mighty wrestling match, and the readers share Molly's tense excitement while the struggle is on. The girl who is so handsome and so proud that all the boys who would address her dare not—who has not known her?—is the heroine of Mary Clarke Huntington's "The Handsomest Lady," an entertaining chronicle of village life. Anna Connelley, Louis J. Stellman and J. Torrey Connor contribute the "Silhouettes in Fiction," brief, terse, fictional sketches of genuine literary quality. Winthrop Packard's "The Promotion of Ebenezer Johnson" is a negro character sketch, and incidentally a merry jest at the expense of our friends the lawyers. The National publishes more and stronger stories in every number—stories out of the lives of Americans now on earth, most of them.

FIFTY FEET OF WINDOWS.

SPLENDID EXHIBITION OF GOODS AT THE REMODELLED STORE OF LAMSON & HUBBARD ON BEDFORD STREET.

The fur and hat store of Lamson & Hubbard, at 92 Bedford, corner of Kingston street, Boston, where these gentlemen have been in business for more than 20 years, has been completely remodelled. The new arrangement displays 50 feet of windows artistically filled with gentlemen's hats, ladies' millinery and fur garments made from the finest trophies of the hunt and chase.

The entrance has been moved to the corner, giving a wider sweep to the windows, and so as to greet the heavy traffic that passes from the South station up Bedford street. As the visitor enters he is impressed by the irregular shape of the floor space, which renders itself easily to the tasteful and cozy decorative exhibit of goods. The floor takes the outline of the map of Massachusetts, the visitor entering at the northwest corner of the state, gazing down to the tip of the cape, where the cashier's desk fills the extreme nook.

The new tiling of the floor, the cases of men's hats and the rich woodwork impress one with the neatness and convenient arrangement of the store. Passing to the second floor, one finds ladies' hats in pleasing display, filling the windows and the cases about the walls. The comfort of the customer is provided by circular settees around the columns, where one may study the exhibit of patterns for custom made millinery. On this floor are wardrobes filled with precious skins, handsome broadtail Persian lamb, dark eastern mink and soft velvety seals, all ready for the laying on the patterns. Great bunches of sable skins suggest tempting garments. There is also provision for the storage of furs, where they are whipped out and kept clean and free of moths.

On three upper floors are the various departments for manufacturing men's hats. Messrs. Lamson and Hubbard have both placed themselves at the head of their business, working from apprenticeship, and can thus direct personally the large corps of workmen busy at the many machines. From a mass of wire and steel springs, strips of cloth and fragments of silk and steaming felt, one observes the outlines of derby, opera, and tall silk hats appearing on the active machines. Under huge hydraulic presses, limber, steamy Quaker shaped hats come out rolled and ironed ready for Beau Brummel to cut a dash at the first night at the theatre.

From the hot finishing rooms, with pattern and molds and dies for all kinds of head-dress, and from the cool fur rooms to the windows on Bedford street, one can find the whole process in creating the latest styles and fur garments in headgear for ladies and gentlemen.

Boston Herald, Sept. 6.

Carl Faelten's Piano School.

Mr. Carl Faelten was indeed fortunate when he selected his new apartments in the commodious Huntington Chambers on Huntington avenue last year. On the third floor is located his school for the piano, which opened for the year's instruction on Monday, Sep. 15, and already the promise of students indicate an increase over any previous number. Mr. Faelten occupies the entire front of the floor, the studios being roomy and even when occupied by the requisite number of pianos, there is plenty of space. Faelten Hall is on the street floor of the same building and this year appears in a new dress. Mr. Faelten has decided to give his series of six recitals this year in the large Huntington Hall, in the basement of the same building instead of at Symphony Hall as heretofore. A new feature of this school is the home for young women students at 19 Westminster avenue, Roxbury. Twenty-five students can be accommodated here and Mrs. H. S. Warner will be in charge of the house. Not the least advantage of the place will be the comforts of a wholesome and pleasant family life.

—Boston Courier, Sept. 13.

At the Churches.

Rev. L. H. Dorchester will give the third in the series of sermons on the "Sea," at the Methodist church, Newton Centre, next Sunday evening. The subject will be "Successful Sailing."

The Young People's Society connected with Eliot church will hold a missionary meeting next Sunday afternoon at the close of the vesper service.

At Trinity church, Newton Centre, next Sunday the evening services will be resumed. The Sunday school has begun its sessions for the autumn and winter.

At Channing church, Newton, next Sunday morning the pastor, Rev. A. L. Hudson, will preach on the subject, "The Attitude of the Christian Church Toward the Accumulation of Wealth." In the afternoon at 4 o'clock the 50th anniversary of the Sunday school will be observed.

The excursion and rally for the Standard Bearer of the W. F. M. S. and the Young People's Societies of the Methodist denomination held Saturday was attended by a number of Newton members. The trip through the navy yard at Charlestown was interesting and the meeting held later in People's Temple, Boston, was largely attended.

At the Congregational church, Auburndale, last Sunday morning the annual offering for the relief of disabled ministers was taken. The Young People's meeting was in charge of Mr. George C. Snow and at the regular evening service Rev. Dr. Francis E. Clark spoke. A meeting of the Young Women's Foreign Missionary Societies was held on Monday afternoon and on Wednesday afternoon the annual meeting of the Ladies Benevolent Society.

Across the Continent.

springs are naturally hot sulphur water, combining among the ingredients, lime, magnesia and lithium and are particularly beneficial to persons suffering from rheumatic troubles. At Canmore a striking profile of the Three Sisters was seen, then through the gap, a narrow passage between two vertical walls, came the foot hills and Calgary, a picturesque ranching city. We left the main line at Moose Jaw and at Portal in the early morning, entered the United States territory. Our baggage was examined by custom house officials and we continued our journey through an extended section of fertile prairie land. The distance covered from Vancouver to Portal was 1250 miles and from there to Minneapolis 560 miles. This last part of the trip was on the Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie Railway, (Soo Line), and we went across North Dakota and Minnesota. I arrived at Minneapolis late at night and spent the following day in that city and St. Paul. These twin cities which have expanded until the limit is the dividing line are entirely different. Minneapolis, the younger but the larger lacks the St. Paul hills, has wider streets, large flouring mills and the fine water power of St. Anthony Falls, so named by Father Hennepin, the wandering Franciscan priest. The population is about 200,000 and the name is a compound of the Sioux word, "minne," meaning "water," and the Greek word, "polis," meaning "city." St. Paul is the capital of Minnesota and received its name from a little log chapel erected on the bluffs near the river by the Catholics in the early days. Between the cities is the beautiful Minnehaha Park, and in a pretty wooded dell are the falls of the same name, the water descending over an overhanging ledge of rock. The fall is neither broad nor high (fifty-nine feet), but it is very pretty and the fame of this, "laughing water," has spread wherever Longfellow's poem,—"Hiawatha," has been read. Some of the other attractions in the park are the picnic grounds and menagerie and from here an excursion steamer makes trips to the Soldiers' Home and Fort Snelling on the Upper Mississippi, one of the oldest and most picturesque military stations in the United States. After visiting the park I took another car ride to Lake Calhoun, Lakewood cemetery and on to Lake Harriet in Minneapolis. Here in a large area of woodland is a summer resort with a pavilion, camps, boat, and bath houses. The Interurban electric line from this point returns to Minneapolis then goes on by the state agricultural school, fair grounds, Como park and Como Lake to St. Paul. This city has a population of 163,000 and the places of interest at the handsome state capital of white marble which is being built, the Indian mounds on the bank of the river and the state fish hatchery. Lake Minnetonka, eighteen miles southwest is the most famous summer resort and a popular excursion from the twin cities is to this lake. The trip to Chicago was made at night on the North Western Limited and in my two days' visit in the windy city I visited Jackson Park on the shores of Lake Michigan, the site of the World's Fair, several other parks, many of the public buildings and the stock yards. The remainder of my journey from Chicago to Boston was the same as when I went out via the Wabash road to Suspension Bridge, the West Shore to Rotterdam Junction and the Fitchburg to Boston. During the summer I have crossed the continent twice, with the side trips have covered a distance of 10,000 miles, and have been in 19 states and three Canadian provinces. Let me state in closing that from past experience I consider travel, if one keeps his eyes and ears open, as equal to book learning from a modern up to date educational standpoint.
